OFFICIAL CHECK CUTS FLORIDA'S STORM DEATHS

BELIEVE TOLL WILL NOT EXCEED 250 AS COUNT MADE PUBLIC

Miami Leading In Reconstruction—Damage $200,000,000

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 23.—As official check of the dead progressed in south Florida's storm area today it was believed not more than 250 fatalities occurred, Col. T. B. Collins, personal representative of Gov. Martin said.

Official count in all areas except Moorehaven and its environs showed 184 killed.

With property damage believed to approximate $200,000,000 strenuous efforts were exerted toward rehabilitation. The program is of such great scope that 300 office workers will be required in the administration office to be established in a central city in the ravaged region, it was said by Henry Baker, national director of disaster relief of the American Red Cross. Baker was to select the city today in an airplane tour of the district.

Expenses of the administration work will be met by the Red Cross. Not a cent of the millions of relief money being collected over the nation will go for pay for the workers, Baker said.

The biggest problem is the reconstruction of homes, swept away by the hurricane Saturday. Food and medical supplies have been received in great quantities and doctors, nurses and relief workers have greatly mitigated suffering.

Negroes have been put to work by authorities in clearing away debris. Pure water is dispensed by Boy Scouts from wash tubs and other containers. The menace of an epidemic is believed to have passed.

The official tabulation of the dead announced by the governor's representative was:

- Greater Miami, 96.
- Hollywood, 19.
- Fort Lauderdale, 13.
- Dania, 10.
- Hialeah, 3.
- Ojus, 2.
- Seaboard Park, 9.
- Miami Shores, 1.
- Davis, 5.
- Larkins and South Miami, 6.
- Black Point, 1.
- Hialeah, 1.
- Perrine, 3.
- Goulds, 1.
- St. Petersburg, 1.

An appeal addressed to "The American People" said:

"We have nearly 1,000 patients in the general and emergency hospitals, hundreds of whom are grievously injured.

"More than 5,000 homes have been either destroyed or made unfit for human habitation. Twenty-five thousand people have been rendered homeless. Miami needs money quickly and in large amounts. Contributions should be sent by wire or fast mail to John R. Reilly, treasurer of the relief fund, Miami, or the American National Red Cross."

Miami, first of all the hurricane-wrecked district is eading in reconstruction.

New roofs are being put on houses.

Palms, shrubbery and pines, twisted and torn by the gale are being cut away rapidly and new trees planted. Telephone and telegraph wires are being restored and new plate glass windows already have been put in store fronts.

Every one is working with optimism going strenuously ahead to bring their lives back to normal again.

Miami has buried nearly 100 hurricane victims and the ruins are being combed for other bodies.

BATTERY OF THREE RADIOS READY TO SERVE FIGHT FANS THURSDAY

Three Loud Speakers Will Convey Blow By Blow Story From Ringside Direct To Crowd In Front Of Building

Prize-fighting history will be made Thursday night at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition stadium at Philadelphia Pa. when William Harrison "Jack" Dempsey steps into the ring with the challenger Gene Tunney, former Marine, in defense of his world's heavyweight crown.

For the purpose of serving Xenia fight fans who will be unable to attend the bout, The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican have completed arrangements for a radio fight party in front of the Gazette Bldg. Thursday night.

A battery of radios has been installed and the word-picture of the main bout as well as the various preliminaries will be relayed to the crowd through five loud speakers operated from three receiving sets. The loud speakers will be stationed in three windows on the second floor of the building facing Detroit St. Radio equipment was furnished through the courtesy of the Eichman-Miller Electrical Co., W. Main St.

Every blow that is struck or dodged, in fact every detail of the fight and preceding bouts will be broadcast to local listeners direct from the ringside by Graham McNamee, assisted by Major J. Andrew White at the microphones.

The program will begin at 6:30 p. m., Xenia time, the preliminary bouts at 7 p. m. and the Dempsey-Tunney battle is expected to start between 8:30 and 8:45 p. m., Xenia time.

The fight party is free to all and the public is invited to gather in front of the Gazette Bldg. and learn first-hand details. Showers are predicted for Thursday night but the usual "Tex Rickard luck" is expected to prevail and weather experts are convinced the bout will go off as scheduled to determine the rightful ownership of the world's heavyweight championship, held by Dempsey for the past seven years.

HERE IS SCHEDULE OF BOUT PROGRAM

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—The schedule of the preliminary bouts to the world's heavyweight championship fight between Dempsey and Tunney follows:

The first bout at 8 p. m., Eastern Daylight time, and the main bout is expected to start between 8:30 and 10 p. m. The preliminaries are scheduled for six rounds, while the Dempsey-Tunney fight is a ten round go.

STILL AND WHISKEY CAPTURED IN RAID

A seventy-five gallon capacity still and two gallons of whiskey were confiscated by Deputy Sheriff John Baughn and George Spencer in a raid on the farm home of Frank Bauer, 31, of the Shakerstown Road, one mile west of Alpha Wednesday afternoon.

Bauer was away from home at the time but was arrested later and will be arraigned before R. O. Copey, justice of the peace, probably Thursday on charges of illegal possession of liquor and possessing implements designed for the manufacture of intoxicating liquor.

WHEN IS QUEEN NOT A QUEEN IS PUZZLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Officials here today were trying to solve a riddle in etiquette and diplomacy.

Following receipt of official notice that beautiful Queen Marie of Rumania will arrive in this country next month for an extended visit, the experts have been put to work on this problem:

"When is a queen not a queen?"

If her royal highness were traveling as a queen, this government would follow the usual diplomatic etiquette, recently accorded the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden, and provide special trains, envoys and receptions.

Or, if Queen Marie were coming "incognito" as the Prince of Wales did, this government would give only informal recognition of the royal presence here.

But the Rumanian foreign minister's language in notifying this government of the visit, was vague regarding the exact status under which the queen chooses to travel. To add to the confusion, the Rumanian legation is uncertain about its sovereign's desires in the matter.

The high lords of etiquette insist she is coming neither as queen nor incognito. But they point out there is no precedent or rule for entertainment of royalty in any such intermediate state.

And, as one expert put it today: "You can't have any etiquette without precedent and rules."

Meanwhile the Governors of Washington, Pennsylvania and Oklahoma, the mayor of Detroit, and president of the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial, who invited the queen, want the state department or Whitehouse or someone to solve the riddle.

THIRTY THREE RADIO STATIONS TO CARRY DEMPSEY BOUT NEWS

Graham McNamee and Mayor White To Describe Battle

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Thirty-three stations will carry description of the Dempsey-Tunney fight tonight in a direct radio hookup from the ringside.

Two noted sports announcers, Graham McNamee of WEA and Major J. Andrew White, of WJZ will describe the fight. The broadcast schedule is to begin at 7:30 Eastern Daylight time with a band concert. The complete hook up follows: WADC, Akron; WEEI, Boston; KVOO, Bristow, Okla.; WMAK and WOR, Buffalo; KYW and WGN, Chicago; WSAI Cincinnati; WTAM Cleveland; WOC, Davenport; WWJ Detroit; KOA, Denver; WTIC, Hartford, Conn.; KEKX, Hastings, Neb.; WDAF, Kansas City; WHAS, Louisville; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WEA and WJZ, New York; KGO, Oakland; WFI, Philadelphia; WCAE and KDKA, Pittsburgh; WCHS, Portland, Me.; WJAR, Providence; WHAM, Rochester; WGY, Schenectady; KSD, St. Louis; WMAF, South Dartmouth, Mass.; WBZ, Springfield; WFBL, Syracuse; WRC, Washington and WTAG, Worcester.

DRIVES AUTO INTO DITCH ALONG PIKE

Fred Boggs, 23, Silvertown, O., arrested by Special Deputy Sheriff Silver Belden after he had driven his coupe into a ditch on the Springfield Pike, two miles north of the city Wednesday noon, was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to thirty days in the County Jail by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Thursday morning.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated. Boggs steered his machine off the road but escaped without injury. He was driving toward Xenia at the time and is employed in a cement plant at Osborn.

A pig in Boggs' car also came through the slight accident safely.

TEX RICKARD AGAIN BREATHING EASIER

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 23.—With two more suits tossed out of court and the time shortening the chances for any further attempts at interference, Tex Rickard began to breathe a little easier this afternoon about the security of his Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship.

"I wasn't worried about those suits because I was assured that there was no good legal ground back of them," Rickard said.

He admitted, however, that he would feel better when the courts close for the day and when the

SECOND SUIT FAILS ELIMINATING BAR TO HOLDING HUGE BOUT

Court Holds Case In Indiana Has No Jurisdiction.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.

—The second injunction application, brought by the Coliseum Club against the Sesqui-Centennial Association and boxing commissioners Weiner, Boyle and Farrell, to restrain them from staging the bout, was also dismissed.

In dismissing the suit Judge Bartlett, who was assisted by Judges McDavitt and Taulane, said:

"The court is of the opinion that the injunction issued by the court of Indiana against the defendant, Dempsey, who is not within the jurisdiction of this court, has no force and effect against the defendants, Rickard and Tunney, who were not parties to the suit between plaintiff and Dempsey in Indiana.

"From the proof submitted the alleged contract between the plaintiff and Dempsey was vague and uncertain.

"No proof was offered by plaintiff that it was prepared to carry out the contemplated exhibition between Dempsey and Wills, nor did the plaintiff establish by sufficient proof that it had complied with the terms of its contract with Dempsey.

"It seeks to restrain a breach of contract rather than a proven contract."

The Coliseum Club in instituting damage suits against Dempsey, Tunney, Rickard, and the Sesqui-Centennial, tacitly admitted it had other legal remedy than injunction for possible loss the court held.

The injunction against the Sesqui-Centennial and the boxing commissioner was dismissed by the court on the same grounds as the suit against Rickard.

In the second action the court further held that "It appears the contract with the Sesqui-Centennial association was entered into on August 18 last without any knowledge or any information on the part of the exposition of any contract between the plaintiff and Dempsey.

"As to the state athletic commission, no legal reason has been advanced to justify this court to compel it to rescind its action."

Through dismissal of the two suits, no further legal obstacles are in the way of the big battle tonight, though Rickard and the principals are involved in pending damage suits by the Coliseum Club and Jack Kearns, the champion's former manager.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK DESIGNATED

The week of October 3 has been designated as Fire Prevention Week in a proclamation issued by President Coolidge but Fire Chief William Hanftan has not yet decided upon a plan for annual local observance of the week, it is announced.

The observance as in previous years will be state-wide but is expected to take the form of an educational campaign, showing precautionary measures that should be taken to guard against the fire evil.

It is disclosed that loss through fire has mounted steadily each year and according to the president's proclamation, reached a total of $570,000,000 in 1925. In addition, the proclamation said, thousands of lives are sacrificed.

DETECTIVES TRACE THREAT IN PROBE OF YOUNGSTOWN BLAST

Dig Into Ruins To Find Letter—Explosion Injured Twenty—Property Damage Was $350,000.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 23.—Five city detectives aided by D. J. Connors, deputy state fire marshal and local fire authorities today were tracing a threatening letter received by G. Silverstri, president of the Youngstown Grocery Co., in an effort to fix responsibility for the blast which yesterday injured twenty persons and caused damage estimated at more than $350,000.

The letter was placed in the vault in Silverstri's store, and was lost in the explosion. Workmen were digging into the ruins in an effort to find it. The letter warned unless Silverstri quit cutting prices he would be "put out of business."

Detectives had questioned employees of the grocery firm but failed to obtain any tangible clues.

PENSACOLA CLEANS UP AFTER DISASTER THOUGH ISOLATED

Hurries To Render Help To Sister Cities In South

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 23.—(By airplane to Montgomery (Ala.))—Though still partially isolated, Pensacola, battered by hurricane and tidal waves for nearly twenty-four hours Monday, is cleaning up and preparing to render aid to her sister cities in southern Florida, which suffered worse.

It probably will be several days before any transportation except by air or sea can be resumed. Pensacola was damaged to the possible extent of several million dollars but escaped without loss of life.

Lieut. Edwin Johnson of the U. S. air service and the United Press correspondent were the first two persons to get into and out of Pensacola since the storm. We spent two hours surveying the stricken city and returned with numerous messages to the outside world. The city's water system is functioning but orders have been issued that all water must be bottled before being used. Officials of the U. S. Public Health Service have little fear of plague or famine.

Sheltered by Santa Rosa Island, Pensacola was not damaged to the extent of the southern Florida cities.

It was necessary to fly at an altitude of several thousand feet in the plane to solve the mystery that had surrounded Pensacola's fate. Several smaller towns which are entirely cut off from communication did not appear to have been as severely damaged as had been feared. Many houses were unroofed but otherwise the settlements appeared to be in good shape.

TYPHOID SERUM IS RUSHED TO FLORIDA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Bearing 50,000 units of typhoid serum for the Florida storm area, an army plane left Schoenfeld, Port Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis at dawn today expecting to arrive at Miami in twelve hours after making stops at Nashville, Atlanta and Pensacola.

Dispatch of the plane was ordered after the Red Cross and war department in the early hours of the morning had cut red tape following an urgent appeal for serum sent to William Fortune, Indianapolis Red Cross chairman.

OHIO CITIES WILL GET GAS TAX MONEY

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.—Accumulated gasoline tax revenues amounting to $987,680, will be sent out Saturday to Ohio cities, it was announced at the state auditor's office today.

Each municipality will receive $1 for each automobile it had registered last year.

Next week each county will receive $10,000 additional, their share of gas tax funds now in the treasury.

Rickard, who has never lost a fight on account of rain, did not appear to be badly worried as the ticket speculators who would be caught with thousands of tickets in the bag. Customers, when it was raining, could get the cheap seats at face value prices and in some cases cheaper than they were selling at the box office. Joe Boynton chief of Rickard's ticket staff, said that he was completely cleaned out of ringside seats.

"I don't remember a complete sell-out before," he said.

PAYROLL BANDITS GET $1,200 IN CASH

COVINGTON, Ky., Sept. 23.—W. S. Hattersley, 60, vice president of the Reliable Safe and Lock Co., of Covington, was held up near the factory by three bandits, who at the point of pistols forced him into a closed automobile, drove into the country and robbed him of the company's $1,200 payroll.

He was bound by shoe strings taken from the robber's shoes and placed in a raving.

He broke the strings, hailed a passing auto, and was brought back to the city, where he reported the robbery to police today.

CLOUDBURST HURTS CROPS SERIOUSLY

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Sept. 23.—Damage estimated at thousands of dollars was done to crops here yesterday when a freak cloudburst struck this section. Roads were damaged, crops inundated, and traffic was delayed on state highways.

A Zanesville and Western Railroad passenger train near Rendev was held up by high water. The New York Central Railroad was tied up by a freight train running into a washout. Fallen trees have blocked country roads.

RAIN THREATENS AS THOUSANDS GATHER TO SEE GLADIATORS

Specials Bring Fans To Scene—Expect Gate To Be $1,800,000

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 23.—Some 50,000 fight fans, ranging from Newport millionaires to roadside hot-dog vendors woke up in Philadelphia today and gazed upon downcast skies.

A threat of rain was in the air; the thermometer read 66 and the weatherman said perhaps showers. It gave a hint that top coats would be welcome tonight when some 140,000 people gather in the great Sesqui-Centennial stadium to see Gene Tunney, the eminent Shakespearean scholar and Jack Dempsey, the husband of Estelle Taylor, decide the world's heavyweight championship.

But after the first disappointment over the weather, the crowds began to forget their troubles and every one settled down to the business of getting ready for the big show.

The crowds were in Philadelphia almost in full force last night. Hotel lobbies were packed. The streets were crowded until well after midnight. Taxicabs were as scarce as water in the Sahara. Hotel accommodations were scarce than that.

Hundreds spent two and three hours getting a place to sleep. The way the crowd lined up on the streets indicated many found no beds, although there were still plenty available in private homes.

Some eighty private cars arrived and those aboard remained on their cars all night.

Scalpers were busy throughout the night. They asked $50 to $100 for $27.50 seats and gave out the word that they would want $150 for them today; $25 for $11 seats, $25 to $50 for $16.50 seats.

But it was noticeable that the scalpers seemed to be doing little actual business.

To worry them a bit, word was sent out by Rickard that a couple of thousand fairly good seats at $11 and $16.50 still were available. Five prohibition agents came to Rickard's offices demanding 100 seats for "spotters" who would watch for hip-pocket flasks. He communicated with Washington and then told the agents they

BISHOP DEFENDS COLLEGE STUDENTS

ELYRIA, O., Sept. 23.—Bishop F. J. McConnell, Pittsburgh, came to the defense of the modern college student in an address last night at the fifteenth annual session of the Northeastern Ohio Conference of the Methodist Church here.

"The average college student is badly misrepresented," he said. "There is less frivolity among young people in school than among older people outside."

The Bishop urged the teaching of controverted subjects such as evolution and modernism in religion.

"The surest methods of making radicals out of students is to instruct them only in so-called safe subjects and forbid them to discuss certain controverted questions."

Dr. Luther E. Lovejoy, superintendent of the department of stewardship, world service commission, urged practice of the tithing system by which members gave one tenth of their income to the church.

JUDGE WITHHOLDS DECISION IN CASE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 23.—Judge Charles A. Read, of the Common Pleas Court, is expected to announce his decision Saturday in the Mayfield injunction hearing which closed here after arguments of attorneys.

Attorney John S. Cline, who brought the suit to enjoin state Highway Director Schlusser from awarding the paving contract to the Dorsey Construction Co., of Findlay, Ohio, charged in his argument, "if the injunction was not granted, it would mean a reign of graft, fraud, and misrepresentation throughout Ohio on road work."

Charles S. Druggan, representing the Dorsey Company, said if the injunction is granted, it will serve notice to contractors outside this city, to "keep outside Cleveland, we want no competition."

BEAVERCREEK TWP'S ANNUAL FAIR STARTS SEPTEMBER 30

Third annual fall fair of Beaver-creek Twp., sponsored by the vo-cational agricultural department as-sisted by other high school depart-ments, will be held Thursday and Friday, September 30 and October 1, at the Knights of Pythias Hall at Alpha.

This year the space within the hall will be given over entirely to exhibits and display of entries. All booths will occupy space outside the hall. Such an arrangement, it is believed, will not only provide space for a greater number of en-tries, but will also give ample room for display. Crowded condi-tions of past years made this change necessary.

Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded in all classes. Following classes will be open: grain, includ-ing corn, wheat, oats, et cetera; fruits, all varieties of apples, pears, et cetera; vegetables, canned goods baked goods, needlework, flowers, best packed school lunch and best display from district school in Bea-vercreek Twp.

With four exceptions, entries in the various classes will correspond with last year. Canned goods, how-ever will be exhibited as: best can-ned peaches, best canned corn et cetera, instead of groups of four cans as last year.

New classes have also been ad-ded to the list this year. Prizes will be given for the best packed lunch for school children. This lunch will be judged on the following basis: amount of food for the individual, selection of foods and attractive-ness of the display.

Another new class expected to arouse interest in district schools has been added. This is open to each room of the grade schools of the township. Prizes will be award-ed to individual pupils for entries and in addition a special prize will be given the room having the best display.

A third new class added this year provides for entries of flow-ers. Baskets containing single var-ieties or mixed varieties may be entered.

Providing no severe frosts occur before the exhibit date, it is hoped this new class will prove its worth by not only adding to the interest of the fair but lending itself to the attractiveness of the displays.

Catalogues containing informa-tion concerning the fair are being distributed and a large entry list is hoped for.

An entertaining program which will include stunts and plays will be given each night. Amusement features will be in charge of the classes of the high school and of various other organizations of the community.

WOOSTER STATION HARVESTS RECORD AMOUNT OF WHEAT

A yield of 65.94 bushels of wheat per acre, the highest yield ever produced in the variety fields at the Ohio Agricultural Experi-ment Station, was harvested this year from Station selection num-ber 14656 of the Fultz-Mediterranean. The one hundred tenth-acre plots in the variety field av-eraged 55.02 bushels per acre.

Six of the standard old varieties, Fultz, Gypsy, Poole, Fulcaster, Nigger and Fultz-Mediterranean averaged fifty-three bushels, while seventeen improved varieties de-veloped by the Station from origi-nal head selections from these old varieties averaged 59.12 bushels, a gain of 6.11 bushels over the parent varieties.

Trumbull wheat, an improved variety developed from a single head of the old Fultz selected by Director Williams in 1906, grown as a check on twenty-four tenth-acre plots, produced 135.22 bush-els, or 56.34 bushels per acre. This wheat which was introduced after being thoroughly tested on the ex-periment farms of the state, was grown on more than half of the wheat acreage in Ohio this year. Farmers have reported excellent yields from all parts of the state, many fields yielding more than fifty bushels per acre.

would have to buy seats and that his ushers would take care of the flasks.

Bill Stillman, in charge of the ushers, went out to the stadium last night and tested it for visi-bility—still another wrinkle that had been added to the prize fight game in this modern era. He said that the ring proved to be enti-rely visible.

Immediately thereafter he ad-ded 1,400 seats, placing stools in aisles and in vacant space—thereby increasing the probable income by $4,225.

Jack Kearns was reported to have bet $50,000 at 3 to 1 that Jack would win.

All night trains kept coming in-to Philadelphia with more people aboard. Twenty-four specials had arrived early today.

W. H. Morgan, of Alliance, Ohio, came with a special car filled with guests. Charles M. Schwab was expected today in a private car from Pittsburgh.

John S. Fisher, Republican can-didate for governor of Pennsyl-vania and Governor Pinchot were listed among early arrivals—Pin-chot pulling for Tunney.

General W. W. Atterbury, presi-dent of the Pennsylvania Railroad, announced his party would in-clude fifteen guests.

Police announced their final plans for handling the crowds. No person without a ticket will be permitted within half a mile of the stadium after the gates are open at 3 p. m. today. Two main streets leading to the stadium will be reserved exclusively for tax-cabs.

Approximately 128,000 tickets have been sold, according to the best information. That does not include 1,400 ushers, the several hundred newspaper men, tele-graphers, photographers, radio men, electricians and others who are concerned in telling the world about the fight; nor Rickard's staff of general attendants, officials and the 1,000 police who will be in and around the stadium.

So the calculation that 140,000 people would see the fight didn't seem far from right.

Receipts were estimated at $1,800,000 of which Dempsey gets $400,000 and Tunney $200,000. It is generally understood Dempsey gets in addition half of the re-ceipts over a million dollars which would make his profit for a few minutes work about $800,000 and leave Tex Rickard about $400,000. Out of that $400,000 Rickard will have to pay the expenses of pro-moting and staging the show and most people agreed this fight would make Rickard wealthy.

The state of Pennsylvania will get about $90,000 in state tax; the federal amusement tax about $175,000; the Sesqui-Centennial about $175,000. Those sums probably will be paid out of Rickard's share and out of whatever Dempsey gets as his share of the receipts over $1,000,000.

There was much speculation to-day as to the referee but no an-nouncement will be made until just before the fight. He will be an important personage for should the fight go the full ten rounds and should the two judges fail to agree in their decision, his word will decide the winner. That is Pennsylvania law. Unless the judges give a unanimous verdict, their judgment is thrown out and the referee becomes the sole ar-biter.

SNYDERS REPORTED SAFE FROM MIAMI

Anxiety that has been felt for days by relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snyder at Miami, was re-lieved Thursday morning when a telegram was received by Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wilkins. The message said that they were safe and asked them to notify Dayton relatives to that effect, but gave no further particulars. The Snyders own an apartment building in Miami four blocks from the ocean front and relatives feared that they may have suffered serious property loss.

Mrs. John M. Davidson and family who have been located at Miami for some time, indicated that they were expecting to return to Xenia. The roof of their home was torn off by the storm.

WE WAG WORLD'S JAWS

A writer for an American newspaper published in Japan busied himself with assembling figures intended to expose to all men the insidious conquest of the world by American chewing gum. They have now reached this country and make fascinating reading.

The World war started it. The American soldier whiled away the tedium of enforced idleness or the monotony of long marches with chewing gum. Other nationalities tried it. It was passed along. As a result, in the year 1925, the investigator declared, the United States exported chewing gum to no less than 75 countries and colonies scattered the world over.

After setting forth figures which show that the Americans themselves spend more than $1,000,000 a week on chewing gum the analyst places the Japanese purchases for a single year at $75,000, which is twice what Australia takes and one-fourth of what goes to the Philippines. The writer believes the taste for it is mounting and that in a short time Japan will be as expert in gum chewing as the Filipinos.

Presumably the disaster may have set the nation back a little and perhaps even now Australia is within a few chews of equality with Japan. But, according to the survey, chewing gum is no longer a novelty anywhere but has become an international formula.

TREES AND HIGHWAYS

The roadside tree is at last coming into its own. Those that have survived the ravages of modern traffic are being protected and new trees are being planted along shadeless highways.

Ancient enemies of the roadside are the sign and bill poster, the road builder, the lineman and the landowner. For years they took an appalling toll in trees, but all are now on the defensive, if not giving voluntary co-operation in the preservation of trees along the highways.

There are times when the removal of a tree or a whole row of trees is necessary to eliminate a dangerous curve or to widen a highway. Under the old order of things such trees were removed and forgotten. Today in many states trees thus removed are either replanted or replaced by new trees.

No longer do the linemen of telephone, telegraph and electric power companies recklessly hack and saw at highway shade trees because their limbs interfere with the wires. Unscientific trimming by linemen killed countless valuable trees before the government began holding the owners of the wires accountable for the trees damaged by their employees.

The motor highway of the future will be a broad thoroughfare bordered on both sides by shade-giving trees and with all communication and power transmission lines running free of the trees and concealed from the roadway. To minimize danger to traffic from storm-broken trees, the trees on this highway of tomorrow will be placed at a safe distance from the roadway.

THWARTING LEPROSY

In the six-letter word "Culion", already well known to many in this country, lies the tale of one of the greatest achievements of American medical and chemical skill and unselfishness in foreign fields.

Culion is the island in the Philippines upon which Dr. Victor C. Heiser, then director of public health in the Philippines, twenty years ago established a leper colony for the treatment and isolation of the great numbers afflicted with this dread disease found in the Philippines when they came into the possession of the United States.

Those first to go went with dread. They feared it meant separation from their loved ones forever and having never seen Culion, they pictured it as a barren, sun-parched island prison. Better to be called "unclean" and to be socially ostracized at home than to go into lifelong exile, they thought.

To their gratifying surprise they found Culion an ideal place to live. They were provided comfortable homes, good food and every care and attention. Where before they had been cut off from most activities, they found occupations to keep them busy. All were social equals on the island and for the first time they could govern themselves. Soon the lepers who had gone into hiding to avoid deportation to Culion began to hear that it was a desirable place to live and one by one gave themselves up.

And a Culion the doctors, with the aid of scientists throughout the world, have been curing 20 percent of the leprosy cases and arresting the malady in 60 percent of them.

Chicago, applying a curfew law to young girls on the streets, and no law to the parents, is engaged in the doubtful experiment of overlooking the cause, to treat the effect.

The best cure for a man's loss of memory is to have his deserted wife inherit something.

Just Folks

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

ONCE IN EVERY MOTORIST'S LIFE

I purchased a bottle of polish from a man that I met on the street. As he smoked a cigar he was shining a car, which is not a remarkable feat. But I stood there and mused on the stuff which he used, as often I'm tempted to do. And I'll swear every drag of that greasy old rag made his omnibus shine just like new. So I paid him a dollar and took home a pint of the polish so simple and quick. I declared "I'll shine this old wagon of mine, as the man said it's really no trick." I started right in with the courage to win, and I shouted with utmost delight. As I looked at my face in that first foot of space, so very remarkably bright. I worked like a Trojan! but Trojans I'm sure never started to polish a car. And they knew not, I fear, that from hood cap to rear, is a distance both spacious and far. I shined up one side when my energy died and my crazy for lustre was shot. So I quit then and there. I have polish to spare. Shall I finish the job? I shall not!

East Side - West Side

—OF—

New York

By Jack O'Donnell

I'm told on Grade A authority that Mr. Zeigfeld, Connoisseur of Contour has a new device for making pulchritude more precarious. He has not sprung it yet on the breathless public, but is holding it in reserve.

It consists of an unusual type of cloth which become perfectly transparent under the action of a certain light ray—the general idea being that he will adorn a number of his dearest girls in gowns made from this cloth, group them at a table playing bridge or some equally innocuous and simple scene, and then introduce a powerful searchlight.

Predictions are that this number will prove a greater attraction than the Tomato Surprise course which Gotham's restaurants are featuring.

One way to make money in New York is to go plumb crazy. An acquaintance of mine got stung by a tsetse fly in Africa two years ago and contracted sleeping sickness, which has since affected his mind. In some ways he is normal but he has queer habits of staring hard at persons, forgetting names and faces and dates, and doing silly things at unexpected moments.

Before the fly stung him he was getting $35 a week in an insurance office. Now he's getting $10,000 a year as advertising manager for an aluminum company. The craze he gets the more he enjoys the high pressure of big business.

Success is an over-night affair in this brightly lighted little island, anyway. Either a tsetse fly or a misunderstanding over the telephone can bring it down around your head if you don't watch out. Only last week, lunching at the Advertising Club, I heard how a big executive of one of New York's large silk houses landed his present high-salaried position. A member of the firm called up the company where this man was working at practically an office-boy wage, and requested an interview with Mr. So-and-So. The name was transmitted wrong, the wrong man applied for the vacancy (more as a joke than anything else)—and got the job. He still has it and is making good, although his salary was multiplied tenfold overnight.

A store that sells nothing but clothes to make stout women look thin is one of the big commercial successes in New York. Its shoe department alone does a colossal business—built-in arches, and diwths to EEE.

It is a fact well known to artists

SIDELIGHTS

ON

Greene County History

It seems queer that within five years from the time the first Court House was completed it was deemed necessary to build additional quarters for county officials.

Such, however, was the case, whatever the cause may have been.

Records of the county commissioners disclose that June 4, 1814, the board passed a resolution ordering the erection on the public square of a building for the use of the clerk of the court of common pleas and the county commissioners.

Contract for the building was let July 4, 1814 to David Douglass for $749.50.

This structure was a small, one-story, brick building, and stood about fifty feet north of Main St. and between the Court House and Green St.

It was ready to be turned over to the county September 4, 1815 and was accepted by commissioners at this time.

A small porch, known in those days by the high-sounding name of "plaza," was built along the front of this little building in 1820 by John Harrison. This building was razed shortly after the office building of 1832 was erected.

ROBERT REISINGER KILLED IN CRASH

Robert Reisinger, 33, well known Dayton undertaker, died at the Miami Valley Hospital at 8 o'clock, Wednesday night of injuries suffered two hours earlier when the automobile in which he was riding skidded and turned over twice on the Brandt Pike.

C. E. McCann, Columbus, highway contractor, who was driving the car, escaped with slight injuries. Mr. Reisinger and Mr. McCann were returning from Columbus where they had transacted business in connection with the death of Mrs. McCann, whose funeral Mr. Reisinger had conducted a week ago. McCann said that his sedan skidded on wet paving when he attempted to make a turn in the road. Mr. Reisinger was thrown clear of the machine and his head struck an iron fence causing a fracture of the skull. He received numerous other lesser injuries. He is survived by his father, Frank Reisinger, also a Dayton undertaker and his widow, Bertha. He was well known in Dayton because of his philanthropies and his annual Christmas party for poor children.

Modish Mitzi

DAD FALLS FOR THE OLD BLUFF

Jay V. Jay

"Mitzi, aren't you going to be with us today?" asks Dad. "I can't," replies Mitzi, "I haven't a rag to wear. Everything I own is at the cleaners." Dad wonders what all those suitcases contained that he has been checking across the country. The circumstantial evidence of the negligee emphasizes the fact that Mitzi is destitute of clothes.

This is a deplorable state. Dad's own daughter, with nothing to wear but a stunning negligee. Well, of course, Dad urges her to go right out and buy a frock so that she can go out and see the sights of Milwaukee for they will be leaving the city shortly. Notice the jig-jag fastening of the neck of this cloth coat dress. It's just what Mitzi wants for the rest of the trip.

This is another dress that shows the season's penchant for shirrings. The shirrings at the neck ends in a jabot effect, the shirrings at the sleeves give a ruffled effect, shirrings at the waist give a bloused waist line. Incidentally, shirrings are used for hats, coats and dresses this season. There is one place Mitzi never feels strange in and that's the shop.

Since Dad really told her to go ahead and get something to wear she added the cloth coat dress, very tailored, very simple, and exceedingly smart. The cuff has tiers which are repeated on the skirt. Of course, when Mitzi gets to the hotel the cleaner will have all her clothes, cleaned and pressed ready to wear. She'll have acquired three new dresses, though.

Tomorrow—Little Things of Great Importance On Evening Clothes

Dempsey Will Not Alibi If Defeated

By HENRY L. FARRELL
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Jim Jeffries said after he had lost the world's heavyweight championship to Jack Johnson that he had been drugged by a double-crossing friend in his camp.
Johnson said he lost his title to Jess Willard because he knew "there wasn't no use in getting up." He only smiled when asked why he had put his hands over his eyes to keep the sun out when he was on the floor.
Willard, when he was knocked out by Jack Dempsey, in Toledo, said that Dempsey had his hands packed and that he hadn't trained enough.
The records are not clear that, with the exception of John L. Sullivan's, "I'm glad the championship remains in America" any defeated heavyweight champion advertised that he was beaten by a better man.
The thought follows—what excuse will Jack Dempsey have if he loses his title to Gene Tunney? Perhaps he may say that he was out of the ring too long, but he doesn't look it and he has taken better care of himself and lived longer during the period of his temporary retirement than any other fighter ever did.

He can't say that he was drugged for he is surrounded by a shock proof entourage of friends and employees.
He won't say that he was beaten by loaded hands because he isn't that type. He won't say "it was no use to get up" because he will get up by instinct if his legs will hold him.
It is very likely that he will say that he was beaten by a better man.
Dempsey never has been a brag. He admits that he is good but he has the record to show for it and does not have to quote his personal opinions.
A heavyweight champion always is surrounded by "yes men" but Dempsey never has been influenced by "yessing."
They told him that Carpenter was a set-up, that Firpo was a palooka and they are telling him now that Tunney can't break a window glass.
"No man can stand up under a punch or enough punching in the right place," is Dempsey's answer to all. "I know that some day I'm going to be hit hard enough and then I'll be through." There are the usual silly stories going around that the "fight is in the bag" and that Tunney will win. The story has been passed around New York and has bounced back from nearly every section of the country. It is said that Dempsey hasn't been training, that he is not in condition to fight and that he will be satisfied with his big end of the purse and a "piece of Tunney" that had to be signed over to him before he accepted the fight.
These rumors are always heard before a heavyweight championship fight and they are only bait for suckers. They are spread around merely to get a lot of Tunney money in circulation and help the gamblers keep the odds down on the champion.

No doubt there are "arrangements" made before championship matches in some of the less important classes and it has come to pass that a champion wants security additional to his purse in the event that he loses the title. But not in every case does it mean that the champion is taking a dive.

It is not logical to figure that enough money could be risked to fix a heavyweight championship fight. Gamblers were able to fix the Chicago White Sox in the 1919 world's series against Cincinnati but the Chicago players who fell for it were not making the weight champion can get out of money in ten years that a heavyweight champion can get out of money in ten years that a heavy-

BATTLE WILL DRAW BIGGEST PAID CROWD IN SPORT HISTORY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—From those relatively ancient days when John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey (the original) and Jack McAuliffe were traveling around taking all comers as "The Three American Jacks," Philadelphia has ranked as one of the most enthusiastic sport towns in the world. There is no other city in the United States where the taxi drivers, the bellhops and the telephone girls can talk as intelligently about any kind of a game as they do in Philadelphia. There is no other city in the country where the public supports tennis, golf, track and field sports, boxing and baseball as they are supported in Philadelphia.
"But," it was pointed out to Tex Rickard, when he was looking for a spot for his Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship fight, "Philadelphia is a cheap town. They will kick like steels if they have to pay ten dollars for a ticket and there are not six champions on the card."
"That's the bunk," Phil Glassman, prominent Philadelphia boxing man, told Rickard when he was being urged to give the New York Boxing Commission the air and take the fight to the Pennsylvania metropolis.
"Most of the tops," he said, "have been ten dollars but for the good shows speculators have been getting as high as thirty dollars for ringside seats. They'll pay in Philadelphia if they get what they want."
Apparently the Dempsey-Tunney fight was something that Philadelphia wanted. As the city, picked out by the vaudeville wise-crackers as "Sleep Town" awoke this morning, it was a safe bet that there wouldn't be a vacant foot in the big stadium in the exposition grounds tonight when the two fighters enter the ring.
Rickard and the ticket experts on his staff who are as familiar with crowds as Ringling's circus staff could not estimate how many spectators would be crowded into the huge concrete stadium, but Rickard shifted his cigar and said—

"Mebbe about 130,000. There'll be a lot in there that ain't sittin' down."
It is safe to estimate that it will be the largest crowd that ever saw a boxing match any place in the world. With the possible exception of the Indianapolis automobile races and some of the football games that have been played in the University of California stadium, it will be the biggest attended sporting event ever held in the United States.

Overly enthusiastic announcements that it will draw the biggest crowd in the history of sport are incorrect as the English Derby at Epsom Downs draws millions. No one can compute the number of persons who see the annual Derby because there are only a few stands in which admission is charged.

WILBERFORCE GRID SEASON TO OPEN WITH ST. LOUIS, LINCOLN

Wilberforce University has arranged a difficult football schedule of eight games for the fall season of which four will be played at home, three away and one on neutral territory at Columbus.
A promising squad of forty candidates is being put through arduous practice sessions twice daily in preparation for the opening of the season's campaign October 2 with Lincoln University, of St. Louis, Mo., at St. Louis.
All positions are fairly well taken care of it is indicated that Coach Graves is feeling slightly over the quarterback position. Prospects of a successful season will be greatly enhanced should Ritchie, the 1925 quarter, return to school. He is expected to rejoin the team soon.
In the successful season enjoyed by Wilberforce last year the travel of the team was the leading feature. Of the three inter-sectional games played, two were won and one lost.
Outstanding games were those with Lincoln, Howard, West Virginia Collegiate Institute and Langston. Howard and Collegiate games were lost in the last few minutes of play. Langston was scored upon for the first touchdown made against the Oklahoma team in three seasons. The local team won seven and lost two games.

Wilberforce this season will have an opportunity to avenge the Howard and Institute defeats as return games are scheduled with both teams.
Leading contest on the fall schedule is with Howard University of Washington D. C. at Wilberforce November 6. This will be celebrated as the home coming game.
Complete schedule follows:
Oct. 2.—Lincoln University, St. Louis, Mo., at St. Louis.
Oct. 9.—Bluefield Institute, Bluefield, W. Va., at Wilberforce.
Oct. 16.—Simmons University, Louisville, Ky., at Wilberforce.
Oct. 23.—Lincoln University at Philadelphia, Pa.
Oct. 30.—Kentucky Normal, Frankfort, Ky., at Frankfort.
Nov. 6.—Howard University, Washington D. C. at Wilberforce.
Nov. 13.—Morris Brown University, Atlanta, Ga., at Wilberforce.
Nov. 25.—West Virginia Collegiate Institute at Columbus.

Reds Have Mathematical Chance, That Is All

The league-leading St. Louis Cardinals benefitted hugely by the idleness of the Cincinnati Reds and reveling in the sunlight of a near National League pennant for the first time in thirty-seven years, walloped the Brooklyn Robins 15 to 7, Wednesday.
Thus the Cards increased their lead over the Reds to two and one-half games and practically clinched the league championship. Cincinnati's pennant horizon is now farther away than ever. The Reds still have a mathematical chance to win the flag but that is all.
St. Louis has three more games, two with New York and one with Cincinnati. The Reds have four more to play three with Philadelphia and the Cardinal contest. By winning both contests with the Giants St. Louis can clinch the flag even if the Reds should show such a reversal of form that the team wins all of its remaining games.

Cincinnati is banking on one forlorn hope—that New York will defeat the Cards in at least one of the two games. In such an event the Reds have a slim opportunity to create a tie in the league by making a clean sweep of the series with the Phillies and defeating the Cards in the single contest, September 26.
It is not much to hope for unless Cincinnati plays in improved style from now on but there still remains the old mathematical possibility, if that is any satisfaction. Meanwhile Cleveland, the Ohio pennant contender in the American League, is not letting any opportunities to gain on the New York Yankees slip away. Cleveland cut New York's lead to two games by slipping a 5 to 1 defeat over Boston while the Chicago White Sox were rallying in the ninth inning to set back the Yankees 2 to 1.

Cleveland is not giving up hope but continues to fight gamely in a desperate effort to overtake the former world champions who have not been enjoying much success on the diamond lately.
The only contest of vital importance scheduled in either of the circuits for Thursday is the Cincinnati-Philadelphia tilt. The other major league contenders are idle.
The Reds must defeat the Phillies Thursday to even keep abreast of their slim mathematical chance to win the pennant.

until Thanksgiving Day, it is announced.

William Garrett, of Centre College, Danville, Ky., will referee the Friday game.

It was also made known that Dr. Dave Reese, well known locally, has been engaged to officiate in the remainder of Central's home games this season.

Coach Kolb's boys have come through practice drills and scrimmage games in fine shape and hope for an impressive victory Friday.

LOSES THUMB

Too Much "Acid?"

Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles.

AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this toxic material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints, a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. Doan's are recommended by many local people. Ask your neighbor!

COUNTY RESPONDS SLOWLY TO APPEAL FOR FLORIDA RELIEF

The Florida disaster relief fund being raised by the Greene County Chapter of the American Red Cross under a proclamation of Mayor John W. Prugh with authorization of national headquarters, is slowly being swelled by a number of voluntary contributions.

The Greene County Chapter of the Red Cross has been designated as the official relief organization of the city to handle all funds with which rehabilitation measures in Florida will be directed.

Greene County is responding slowly to the appeal for contributions for relief work. Voluntary contributions will be sent to national headquarters from where the national campaign to raise a vast sum for relieving the suffering and for rehabilitation work in the storm-torn area is being directed.

No campaign for funds will be made locally and no quota has been allotted the county but voluntary contributions should be sent to the Red Cross headquarters at the Court House.

Willard Inwood, 14, a pupil at the Clinton High School, in Clinton County, is also suffering from the malady in a virulent form.

Fine of $10 and costs and a sentence of six months in the Dayton Workhouse was meted out to Elmer Huffman, this city by Probate Judge S. C. Wright on a charge of non-support, Thursday morning. He pleaded guilty.

Huffman was arrested Wednesday by Probation Officer J. E. Watts on an affidavit filed several days ago by his former wife, now Mrs. Roy Webb. There is one child a fourteen-year-old girl.

Easy to check Catarrh NOW!

Few people put up with catarrh willingly. Yet many endure its discomforts because they do not know how easy it is to end. Salves and ointments give temporary relief. But catarrh is too deep-seated for them to reach effectively. To end catarrh you must treat the inflamed mucous membranes—the delicate linings of nose, throat and head. When these are again in a healthy condition catarrh disappears. Bad breath, catarrhal deafness and other symptoms vanish. For over 40 years Hall's Catarrh Medicine has been the outstanding successful method of combating catarrh. Its effectiveness has been proved by thousands. Get it at any drug store. Or send 5c to F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE

Thousands and thousands of people are learning every week that one 25-cent box of Peterson's Ointment will abolish eczema and banish piles.

"I had eczema for many years on my head and could not get anything to stop the agony. I saw your ad and got one box and I owe you many thanks for the good it has done me. There isn't a blotch on my head now and I couldn't help but thank Peterson, for the cure is great." Miss Mary Hill, 420 Third Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"I have had itching piles for fifteen years and Peterson's is the only ointment that relieved me, besides the piles seem to have gone." A. B. Ruger, 1127 Washington Avenue, Racine, Wis.

Use Peterson's Ointment for old sores, burns, bruises, chaffing and all skin diseases. Druggists recommend it. —Adv.

BRITISH JURISTS RECEIVE TWICE AS MUCH PAY AS IN U. S.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—British judges from the top down to the lowest police magistrate, are the highest paid in the world. The six "Lords of Appeal in Ordinary"—known as the Law Lords—who hear appeal cases in the House of Lords, get $30,000 a year. Another appeal court known as the "Supreme Court of Judicature" has five judges, each of whom gets $25,000. The Rt. Hon. Lord Hewart, who presides over the "King's Bench Division"—a sort of appellate court—receives $40,000 a year and each of his associates receives $25,000.

Even the metropolitan police magistrates get salaries that are not to be despised—namely $7,500 a year.

WHEAT SUFFERED IN 1926 FROM HESSIAN FLY SURVEY SHOWS

The 1926 wheat crop suffered comparatively little injury from Hessian fly except for some fields in about a dozen counties in the west-central part of the state. The wheat field survey made by entomologists of the State University, Experiment Station, and Department of Agriculture revealed, however, that the amount of fly in practically all sections was slightly greater than it was in 1925.

This condition is interpreted as indicating that at this time the insect is gradually forging ahead of its natural enemies which have rather effectively held it in check during the last few years. Past experience with the fly leads entomologists to believe that under this condition it would be unwise to digress very far from the fly-free seedling dates.

In west-central Ohio, a dozen or more counties, including Darke, Preble, Miami, Montgomery Champaign Clark, etc., the suggested dates should be adhered to without fail.

MAGAZINE DEVOTED TO PARENTHOOD IS BEING PUBLISHED

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Under the sponsorship of sixty eminent specialists in children's health, education, and welfare, a new national periodical called "Children. The Magazine for Parents," made its initial appearance today.

"This magazine," it was announced by George J. Hecht, president of The Parents' Publishing Association, under whose auspices it is issued, "will have no propaganda purpose, being dedicated solely to fathers and mothers, for the sake of a new generation of normal, intelligent and healthy children. In this it will have the active co-operation of the leading educational and child welfare agencies, private, public and governmental."

Among the editors of the new magazine are: Miss Julia C. La-throp, former chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, Angelo Patri, educator and author of books on child training, Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of the Juvenile Court of Denver, Colo., Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University, Dr. Lee K. Frankel, chairman of the National Health Council, Dr. Helen T. Woolley, director, Institute of Child Welfare Research, Teachers College, Columbia University, James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, Mrs. Sidonie M. Gruenberg, director of the Child Study Association of America, Mrs. Jane Deeter Rippin, national director, The Girl Scouts and Dr. Bela Schick, discoverer of the Schick test for diphtheria.

"There are magazines on the breeding of hogs and dogs, the growing of flowers, the refining of metals," explained Hecht, "There are magazines for laboring men, radio fans, barbers, beekeepers—for every trade and profession, except the greatest of all—parenthood.

"Billions of dollars are spent on schools; but practically nothing is spent to teach parents how to rear their children. Of 96,000 hours of a child's life between the ages of five and sixteen, only 7,000 hours are spent in school; the other ninety per cent of the time is the parents' responsibility. The new magazine will have nothing for children to read; it will consider with parents all the vital problems of bringing up children from crib to college."

First Pictures Show Devastation Wrought By Storm

Pictures reproduced below tell a graphic story of the damage wrought by the hurricane which struck Florida east coast cities early last Saturday, leaving a mounting toll of dead and injured, and property destruction estimated at $100,000,000. These pictures show trees and buildings broken and overturned by the storm, crowds searching the debris for victims, houses standing on their roofs, autos overturned and a four-column picture of Hardy's Casino at Miami Beach, standing in ruins. The pictures were taken at Miami or Miami Beach, worst hit of the several cities that were in the path of the tropical hurricane. All pictures are copyrighted by International Newsreel.

Where Storm Took Millions Toll—Central Business Portion of Miami

This panorama photograph, one of the best ever taken of the central business portion of Miami, was secured from the top of the Miami Daily News tower, on North Bayshore Drive. Here the tropical hurricane that recently visited Florida took a toll of millions of dollars.

The Girl Who Dared

By May Christie

Chapter VIII. NEW YORK

New York at last! Mary Forrest, a little dazed and very much intrigued, leant over the side of the steamer and gazed at the towering cliffs of buildings that jutted against the New York skyline in a weird and wonderful effect.

"How on earth did the builders ever do it?" she murmured to John Rogers who, assiduously attentive in the last few days, was by her side.

"Almost reach to high heaven, don't they?" he laughed in answer. Then he added: "When it comes to building skyscrapers, you'll admit it's 'going some!' In a high wind they say the steel frame of the upper part can swing six feet or so. Sort of yielding motion, like cradle-rocking."

"I'd prefer terra firma," said Mary with a shiver.

Came the voice of Luella, rather peevish, from behind.

"You all make me tired with your skyscraper gazing! If we only had more space for decent houses in New York, who'd be a 'cliff-dweller' anyway? I was in a fire once, and the elevator was cut off, and believe me there wasn't much fun in crawling down fourteen floors on the iron fire escape outside! Not that a fire-escape would be any help in the latest New York stunt of earthquakes! Oh, yes, we have earthquakes! Just you wait!"

As Luella moved away, John Rogers said:

"Miss Loder's been a prize pessimist of late. And she seems to have quarreled with her handsome sweetheart."

"You mean — Mr. Andover?" Mary's tones were strained.

"The very same. Nice chap. A little upstage, maybe. I hear he was quite poor and then inherited a fine property in Cuba. Lucky chap! I had to slave and work my fingers to the bone to get my pile together."

Now Mary had heard, in a long melancholy recital from the furiously disappointed Miss Luella Loder, the tale of Philip's lost inheritance.

"And the ghastly bit is that the news arrived just at the wrong moment, when Philip had proposed to me and I'd practically accepted him," had wailed Luella, in the cabin to her confidante, "if it only had come five minutes sooner — (really) they're awfully careless about delivering radios quickly on these boats) — then I'd have been saved this awful contretemps."

"You mean—the bad news—would have made a difference to your answer?" Mary had stammered shocked, amazed, and at the same time with a pained envy over the other girl's breath-taking fortune in having won the love of such a man as Mr. Andover. "But he'll need you all the more now that—"

"Nonsense!" Luella had interrupted tersely. "I don't want to marry a failure. You couldn't imagine me as being poor?"

After landing at Desbrosses St. the Wade party, which included Mary and Luella, were rattling at a furious speed over the cobbled streets.

"Don't be nervous," Mrs. Wade reassured her. "The only real risk to pedestrians. The autos kill on an average, in New York alone, about three hundred people a month!"

"Hustle," certainly appeared to be the motto here. Mary was intrigued particularly by the smart appearance of the women. The streets were full of them, for the offices were disgorging clerks and typists by the thousand in the lunch hour.

"Our stenographers dress very well—much better than in most cities," explained Luella. "They don't spoil things by a flower here and a ribbon there, and the wrong shade of shoes and gloves, and a shirt-waist that isn't properly pressed."

"But girls in some places don't put every penny on their backs, like the spendthrift creatures here," commented Mrs. Wade. "And from what I've seen of the Southern working girls"—she nodded approvingly towards Mary Forrest—"they have pleasant manners, and a proper respect for their elders, which our terrible young women don't. I really pity the mothers of the present-day. They've no control whatever over their daughters. The girls only use their homes as places to sleep in, and come home at all hours of the morning, and they laugh at criticism, and at their parents."

Mary looked about the busy streets.

"These girls must get big salaries to dress so well and be able to afford so many enjoyments."

Luella gave a careless shrug. "Catch our girls paying a penny for enjoyments, as you call them, when so many young men are about. As for clothes, we have a different system. An expensive model right from Paris appears in a Fifth Avenue store, and is exclusive only for a month or two. Then you see it copied everywhere on Broadway, in the cheap little shops, in cheap materials, but cut, oh! so cleverly and smartly! That applies to coats and cloaks and everything, as well as dresses."

"So our pert young misses ape their betters," commented Mrs. Wade with some acidity.

"And certainly get away with it," Luella supplemented.

The taxi rattled and bumped into Fifth Avenue, and Mary Forrest gazed with fascinated eyes at the beautifully-arranged shop-windows and the hurrying throngs.

Brilliant sunshine lay on everything. The air was keen, yet not too cold. It braced her.

"Nice weather for December," said Cyrus Wade. "Our Indian summer lingers."

The taxi swung to the left and Mary had her first glimpse of New York's "elevated railway." On a skeleton framework supported by iron pillars that were set in the center of a street rattled an overhead railway, crammed with passengers.

Mary craned her neck to look up at the contraption.

"They do have accidents sometimes," said Mrs. Wade. "Several coaches full of passengers fell off into the street, down Brooklyn way. Very alarming and I don't much care for traveling by the 'L.' But the subways are insufferable, so what is one to do?"

Mary felt a little stunned. The elevated roared, the street cars clashed with an intolerable noise. Over the streets at an incredible speed went motor-trucks, sounding sirens and hooters as they dashed along. And cars, some with open exhaust, and shrieking devilishly. Their taxi came to a violent stop outside a skyscraper, and soon Mary found herself in a hotel lobby like a street, so big it was, so crammed with people.

"This is where we stay for a few days," said Mrs. Wade. They crossed the tessellated floor to a long marble counter, dividing into sections bearing electrically lit signs: "Mail"—"Information"—"Reception"—"Telegrams"—"Travel"—etc.

A clerk consulted an open ledger. The Wade couple and Luella were to be located on the twentieth floor, it seemed, and a bedroom had been reserved for Mary Forrest on the sixth, the ladies' floor, from which the foot of man was utterly prohibited.

"The young lady will be quite comfortable here," said the reception clerk. "I have nothing except for her on the twentieth, at the price you name."

He signalled a bell-hop, who accompanied Mary into one of the two elevators marked "Local" the other members of the party disappearing into an "Express." On the sixth floor the bell-hop introduced her to a lady clerk who took her through a labyrinth of corridors to a bedroom that was brilliantly lit with many lamps and bulbs, and had a white-tiled private bathroom opening off it.

"Yours, madam. If you require anything, just telephone for it." And she withdrew.

Mary went over to the window and pulled up the blind. Although she had just come in from the sunny noon-time streets, a deep twilight lay outside her room. As she stood there, puzzled, straining her eyes in the semi-darkness, there was a sudden flash and a roaring noise, and the floor under her feet vibrated, and the four walls shook!

"Good, gracious! What on earth? Is it an earthquake?"

Below her window writhed and roared and screamed a long trailing monster!

Mary fell back in terror. Oh! what could it be? The awful sound died off... and then it came again... and yet again.

She grabbed the telephone, and stuttered out an inquiry to an astonished operator.

"Say, miss, it's just the elevated railway!" came the giggling answer. "Yep! Right below your window! A train a minute, night and day!"

OFFICIAL CHECK CUTS FLORIDA'S STORM DEATHS

BELIEVE TOLL WILL NOT EXCEED 250 AS COUNT MADE PUBLIC

Miami Leading In Reconstruction—Damage $200,000,000

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 23.—As official check of the dead progressed in south Florida's storm area today it was believed not more than 250 fatalities occurred, Col. T. B. Collins, personal representative of Gov. Martin said.

Official count in all areas except Moorehaven and its environs showed 184 killed.

With property damage believed to approximate $200,000,000 strenuous efforts were exerted toward rehabilitation. The program is of such great scope that 300 office workers will be required in the administration office to be established in a central city in the ravaged region, it was said by Henry Baker, national director of disaster relief of the American Red Cross. Baker was to select the city today in an airplane tour of the district.

Expenses of the administration work will be met by the Red Cross. Not a cent of the millions of relief money being collected over the nation will go for pay for the workers, Baker said.

The biggest problem is the reconstruction of homes, swept away by the hurricane Saturday. Food and medical supplies have been received in great quantities and doctors, nurses and relief workers have greatly mitigated suffering.

Negroes have been put to work by authorities in clearing away debris. Pure water is dispensed by Boy Scouts from wash tubs and other containers. The menace of an epidemic is believed to have passed.

The official tabulation of the dead announced by the governor's representative was:

- Greater Miami, 96.
- Hollywood, 19.
- Fort Lauderdale, 13.
- Dania, 10.
- Hialeah, 3.
- Ojus, 2.
- Seaboard Park, 9.
- Miami Shores, 1.
- Davis, 5.
- Larkins and South Miami, 6.
- Black Point, 1.
- Hialeah, 1.
- Perrine, 3.
- Couids, 1.
- St. Petersburg, 1.

An appeal, addressed to "The American People" said:

"We have nearly 1,000 patients in the general and emergency hospitals, hundreds of whom are grievously injured.

"More than 5,000 homes have been either destroyed or made unfit for human habitation. Twenty-five thousand people have been rendered homeless. Miami needs money quickly and in large amounts. Contributions should be sent by wire or fast mail to John R. Reilly, treasurer of the relief fund, Miami, or the American National Red Cross."

Miami, first of all the hurricane-wrecked district is eading in reconstruction.

New roofs are being put on houses.

Palms, shrubbery and pines, twisted and torn by the gale are being cut away rapidly and new trees planted. Telephone and telegraph wires are being restored and new plate glass windows already have been put in store fronts.

Every one is working with optimism going strenuously ahead to bring their lives back to normal again.

Miami has buried nearly 100 hurricane victims and the ruins are being combed for other bodies.

BATTERY OF THREE RADIOS READY TO SERVE FIGHT FANS THURSDAY

Three Loud Speakers Will Convey Blow By Blow Story From Ringside Direct To Crowd In Front Of Building

Prize-fighting history will be made Thursday night at the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition stadium at Philadelphia Pa. when William Harrison "Jack" Dempsey steps into the ring with the challenger Gene Tunney, former Marine, in defense of his world's heavyweight crown.

For the purpose of serving Xenia fight fans who will be unable to attend the bout, The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican have completed arrangements for a radio fight party in front of the Gazette Bldg. Thursday night.

A battery of radios has been installed and the word-picture of the main bout as well as the various preliminaries will be relayed to the crowd through five loud speakers operated from three receiving sets. The loud speakers will be stationed in three windows on the second floor of the building facing Detroit St. Radio equipment was furnished through the courtesy of the Eichman-Miller Electrical Co., W. Main St.

Every blow that is struck or dodged, in fact every detail of the fight and preceding bouts will be broadcast to local listeners direct from the ringside by Graham McNamee, assisted by Major J. Andrew White, at the microphones.

The program will begin at 8:30 p. m., Xenia time, the preliminary bouts at 7 p. m. and the Dempsey-Tunney battle is expected to start between 8:30 and 8:45 p. m., Xenia time.

The fight party is free to all and the public is invited to gather in front of the Gazette Bldg. and learn first-hand details.

Showers are predicted for Thursday night but the usual "Tex Rickard luck" is expected to prevail and weather experts are convinced the bout will go off as scheduled to determine the rightful ownership of the world's heavyweight championship, held by Dempsey for the past seven years.

WHEN IS QUEEN NOT A QUEEN IS PUZZLE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Officials here today were trying to solve a riddle in etiquette and diplomacy.

Following receipt of official notice that beautiful Queen Marie of Rumania will arrive in this country next month for an extended visit, the experts have been put to work on this problem:

"When is a queen not a queen?"

If her royal highness were traveling as a queen, this government would follow the usual diplomatic etiquette, recently accorded the Crown Prince and Princess of Sweden, and provide special trains, envoys and receptions.

Or, if Queen Marie were coming "incognito" as the Prince of Wales did, this government would give only informal recognition of the royal presence here.

But the Rumanian foreign minister's language in notifying this government of the visit, was vague regarding the exact status under which the queen chooses to travel.

To add to the confusion, the Rumanian legation is uncertain about its sovereign's desires in the matter.

The high lords of etiquette insist she is coming neither as queen nor incognito. But they point out there is no precedent or rule for entertainment of royalty in any such intermediate state.

And, as one expert put it today: "You can't have any etiquette without precedent and rules."

Meanwhile the Governors of Washington, Pennsylvania and Oklahoma, the mayor of Detroit, and president of the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial, who invited the queen, want the state department or Whitehouse or someone to solve the riddle.

THIRTY THREE RADIO STATIONS TO CARRY DEMPSEY BOUT NEWS

Graham McNamee and Mayor White To Describe Battle

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Thirty-three stations will carry description of the Dempsey-Tunney fight tonight in a direct radio hookup from the ringside.

Two noted sports announcers, Graham McNamee of WJAF and Major J. Andrew White, of WJZ will describe the fight. The broadcast schedule is to begin at 7:30 Eastern Daylight time with a band concert. At 8:15 announcements of the preliminary bouts begin and about 9:30 comes the championship bout. Should the fight be postponed the stations are to be hooked up, on any night the contestants take the ring.

The complete hook up follows: WADC, Akron; WEEL, Boston; KVOO, Bristol, Okla.; WMAK and WOR, Buffalo; KYW and WGN, Chicago; WSAI Cincinnati; WTAM Cleveland; WOC, Davenport; WVIC, Detroit; KOA, Denver; WTIC, Hartford, Conn.; KEKX, Hastings, Neb.; WDAF, Kansas City; WHAS, Louisville; WCCO, Minneapolis-St. Paul; WJAF and WJZ, New York; KGO, Oakland; WFI, Philadelphia; WCAE and KDKA, Pittsburgh; WCHS, Portland, Me.; WJAR, Providence; WHAM, Rochester; WGY, Schenectady; KSD, St. Louis; WMAF, South Dartmouth, Mass.; WBZ, Springfield; WFBL, Syracuse; WRC, Washington and WTAG, Worcester.

The week of October 3 has been designated as Fire Prevention Week in a proclamation issued by President Coolidge but Fire Chief William Hanftan has not yet decided upon a plan for annual observance of the week, it is announced.

The observance as in previous years will be state-wide but is expected to take the form of an educational campaign, showing precautionary measures that should be taken to guard against the fire evil.

It is disclosed that loss through fire has mounted steadily each year and according to the president's proclamation, reached a total of $570,000,000 in 1925. In addition, the proclamation said, thousands of lives are sacrificed.

DRIVES AUTO INTO DITCH ALONG PIKE

Fred Boggs, 23, Silvertown, O., arrested by Special Deputy Sheriff Diver Belden after he had driven his coupe into a ditch on the Springfield Pike, two miles north of the city Wednesday noon, was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to thirty days in the County Jail by Probate Judge S. C. Wright Thursday morning.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of operating an auto while intoxicated. Boggs steered his machine off the road but escaped without injury. He was driving toward Xenia at the time and is employed in a cement plant at Osborn.

A pig in Boggs' car also came through the slight accident safely.

TEX RICKARD AGAIN BREATHING EASIER

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 23.—Two principals are in town safely. There were rumors that Jack Kearns, former manager of the champion would make another attempt to block the fight just before the courts close.

Kearns, however, told friends that he was trying to stop the fight and that any action he might take would be taken "to get my hands on Dempsey's dough."

Weather conditions, while still threatening at noon, were more encouraging. The skies were still heavy but the light rain had ceased.

SECOND SUIT FAILS ELIMINATING BAR TO HOLDING HUGE BOUT

Court Holds Case In Indiana Has No Jurisdiction.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.

—The second injunction application, brought by the Coliseum Club against the Sesqui-Centennial Association and boxing commissioners Weiner, Boyle and Farrell, to restrain them from staging the bout, was also dismissed.

In dismissing the suit Judge Bartlett, who was assisted by Judges McDavitt and Taulane, said:

"The court is of the opinion that the injunction issued by the court of Indiana against the defendant, Dempsey, who is not within the jurisdiction of this court, has no force and effect against the defendants, Rickard and Tunney, who were not parties to the suit between plaintiff and Dempsey in Indiana."

"From the proof submitted the alleged contract between the plaintiff and Dempsey was vague and uncertain."

"No proof was offered by plaintiff that it was prepared to carry out the contemplated exhibition between Dempsey and Willis, nor did the plaintiff establish by sufficient proof that it had complied with the terms of its contract with Dempsey."

"It seeks to restrain a breach of contractual rather than a proven contract."

The Coliseum Club in instituting damage suits against Dempsey, Tunney, Rickard, and the Sesqui-Centennial, tacitly admitted it had other legal remedy than injunction for possible loss the court held.

The injunction against the Sesqui-Centennial and the boxing commissioner was dismissed by the court on the same grounds as the suit against Rickard.

In the second action the court further held that it appears the contract with the Sesqui-Centennial association was entered into on August 18 last without any knowledge or any information on the part of the exposition of any contract between the plaintiff and Dempsey.

"As to the state athletic commission, no legal reason has been advanced to justify this court to compel it to rescind its action."

Through dismissal of the two suits, no further legal obstacles are in the way of the big battle tonight, though Rickard and the principals are involved in pending damage suits by the Coliseum Club and Jack Kearns, the champion's former manager.

DETECTIVES TRACE THREAT IN PROBE OF YOUNGSTOWN BLAST

Dig Into Ruins To Find Letter—Explosion Injured Twenty—Property Damage Was $350,000.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 23.—

Five city detectives aided by D. J. Connors, deputy state fire marshal and local fire authorities today were tracing a threatening letter received by G. Silverstri, president of the Youngstown Grocery Co., in an effort to fix responsibility for the blast which yesterday injured twenty persons and caused damage estimated at more than $350,000.

The letter was placed in the vault in Silverstri's store, and was lost in the explosion. Workmen were digging into the ruins in an effort to find it. The letter warned unless Silverstri quit cutting prices he would be "put out of business."

Detectives had questioned employees of the grocery firm but failed to obtain any tangible clues.

PENSACOLA CLEANS UP AFTER DISASTER THOUGH ISOLATED

Hurries To Render Help To Sister Cities In South

PENSACOLA, Fla., Sept. 23.—(By airplane to Montgomery (Ala.)—Though still partially isolated, Pensacola, battered by hurricane and tidal waves for nearly twenty-four hours Monday, is cleaning up and preparing to render aid to her sister cities in southern Florida, which suffered in worse.

It probably will be several days before any transportation except by air or sea can be resumed. Pensacola was damaged to the possible extent of several million dollars but escaped without loss of life.

Leut. Edwin Johnson of the U. S. air service and the United Press correspondent were the first two persons to get into and out of Pensacola since the storm. We spent two hours surveying the stricken city and returned with numerous messages to the outside world. The city's water system is functional but orders have been issued that all water must be boiled before being used. Officials of the U. S. Public Health Service have little fear of plague or famine.

Sheltered by Santa Rosa Island, Pensacola was not damaged to the extent of the southern Florida cities.

It was necessary to fly at an altitude of several thousand feet in the plane to solve the mystery that had surrounded Pensacola's fate. Several smaller towns which are entirely cut off from communication did not appear to have been as severely damaged as had been feared. Many houses were unroofed but otherwise the settlements appeared to be in good shape.

Dispatch of the plane was ordered after the Red Cross and war department in the early hours of the morning had cut red tape following an urgent appeal for serum sent to William Fortune, Indianapolis Red Cross chairman.

TYPHOID SERUM IS RUSHED TO FLORIDA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Bearing 50,000 units of typhoid serum for the Florida storm area, an army plane left Schoenfeld, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis at dawn today expecting to arrive at Miami in twelve hours after making stops at Nashville, Atlanta and Pensacola.

Dispatch of the plane was ordered after the Red Cross and war department in the early hours of the morning had cut red tape following an urgent appeal for serum sent to William Fortune, Indianapolis Red Cross chairman.

OHIO CITIES WILL GET GAS TAX MONEY

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23.—Accumulated gasoline tax revenues amounting to $987,680, will be sent out Saturday to Ohio cities, it was announced at the state auditor's office today.

Each municipality will receive $1 for each automobile it had registered last year.

Next week each county will receive $10,000 additional, their share of gas tax funds now in the treasury.

TEX RICKARD AGAIN BREATHING EASIER

Rickard, who has never lost a fight on account of rain, did not appear to be badly worried as the ticket speculators who would be caught with thousands of tickets in the bag. Customers, when it was raining, could get the cheap seats at face value prices and in some cases cheaper than they were selling at the box office. Joe Boynton chief of Rickard's ticket staff, said that he was completely cleaned out of ringside seats.

"I don't remember a complete sell-out before," he said.

PAYROLL BANDITS GET $1,200 IN CASH

COVINGTON, Ky., Sept. 23.—W. S. Hattersley, 60, vice president of the Reliable Safe and Lock Co., of Covington, was held up near the factory by three bandits, who at the point of pistols forced him into a closed automobile, drove into the country and robbed him of the company's $1,200 payroll.

He was bound by shoe strings taken from the robber's shoes and placed in a raven.

He broke the strings, hailed a passing auto, and was brought back to the city, where he reported the robbery to police today.

CLOUDBURST HURTS CROPS SERIOUSLY

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Sept. 23.—Damage estimated at thousands of dollars was done to crops here yesterday when a freak cloudburst struck this section. Roads were damaged, crops inundated, and traffic was delayed on state highways.

A Zanesville and Western Railroad passenger train near Rendeville was held up by high water. The New York Central Railroad was tied up by a freight train running into a washout. Fallen trees have blocked country roads.

RAIN THREATENS AS THOUSANDS GATHER TO SEE GLADIATORS

Specials Bring Fans To Scene—Expect Gate To Be $1,800,000

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 23.—Some 50,000 fight fans, ranging from Newport millionaires to roadside hot-dog vendors woke up in Philadelphia today and gazed upon downcast skies.

A threat of rain was in the air; the thermometer read 66 and the weatherman said perhaps showers. It gave a hint that top coats would be welcome tonight when some 140,000 people gather in the great Sesqui-Centennial stadium to see Gene Tunney, the eminent Shakespearean scholar and Jack Dempsey, the husband of Estelle Taylor, decide the world's heavyweight championship.

But after the first disappointment over the weather, the crowds began to forget their troubles and every one settled down to the business of getting ready for the big show.

The crowds were in Philadelphia almost in full force last night. Hotel lobbies were packed. The streets were crowded until well after midnight. Taxicabs were as scarce as water in the Sahara. Hotel accommodations were scarcer than that.

Hundreds spent two and three hours getting a place to sleep. The way the crowd lingered on the streets indicated many found no beds, although there were still plenty available in private homes.

Some eighty private cars arrived and those aboard remained on their cars all night.

Scalpels were busy throughout the night. They asked $50 to $100 for $25.50 seats and gave out the word that they would want $150 for them today; $25 for $11 seats, $25 to $50 for $16.50 seats.

But it was noticeable that the scalpers seemed to be doing little actual business.

To worry them a bit, word was sent out by Rickard that a couple of thousand fairly good seats at $11 and $16.50 still were available. Five prohibition agents came to Rickard's offices demanding 100 seats for "spotters" who would watch for hip-pocket flasks. He communicated with Washington and then told the agents they

BISHOP DEFENDS COLLEGE STUDENTS

ELYRIA, O., Sept. 23.—Bishop E. J. McConnell, Elyria, came to the defense of the modern college student in an address last night at the fifteenth annual session of the Northeastern Ohio Conference of the Methodist Church here.

"The average college student is badly misrepresented," he said. "There is less frivolity among young people in school than among older people outside."

The Bishop urged the teaching of controversial subjects such as evolution and modernism in religion.

"The surest methods of making radicals out of students is to instruct them only in so-called safe subjects and forbid them to discuss certain controversial questions."

Dr. Luther E. Lovejoy, superintendent of the department of stewardship, world service commission, urged practice of the titling system by which members gave one tenth of their income to the church.

JUDGE WITHHOLDS DECISION IN CASE

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 23.—Judge Charles A. Read, of the Common Pleas Court, is expected to announce his decision Saturday in the Mayfield injunction hearing which closed here after arguments of attorneys.

Attorney John S. Cline, who brought the suit to enjoin state Highway Director Schlesinger from awarding the paving contract to the Dorsey Construction Co., of Findlay, Ohio, charged in his argument, "if the injunction was not granted, it would mean a reign of graft, fraud, and misrepresentation throughout Ohio on road work."

Charles S. Druggan, representing the Dorsey Company, said if the injunction is granted, it will serve notice to contractors outside this city, to "keep outside Cleveland, we want no competition."

BEAVERCREEK TWP'S ANNUAL FAIR STARTS SEPTEMBER 30

Third annual fall fair of Beaver Creek Twp., sponsored by the vocational agricultural department assisted by other high school departments, will be held Thursday and Friday, September 30 and October 1, at the Knights of Pythias Hall at Alpha.

This year the space within the hall will be given over entirely to exhibits and display of entries. All booths will occupy space outside the hall. Such an arrangement, it is believed, will not only provide space for a greater number of entries, but will also give ample room for display. Crowded conditions of past years made this change necessary.

Cash prizes and ribbons will be awarded in all classes. Following classes will be open: grain, including corn, wheat, oats, et cetera; fruits, all varieties of apples, pears, et cetera; vegetables, canned goods, baked goods, needlework, flowers, best packed school lunch and best display from district school in Beaver Creek Twp.

WOOSTER STATION HARVESTS RECORD AMOUNT OF WHEAT

A yield of 65.94 bushels of wheat per acre, the highest yield ever produced in the variety fields at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, was harvested this year from Station selection number 14555 of the Fultz-Mediterranean.

The one hundred tenth-acre plots in the variety field averaged 55.02 bushels per acre. Six of the standard old varieties, Fultz, Gypsy, Poole, Fulcaster, Nigger and Fultz-Mediterranean averaged fifty-three bushels, while seventeen improved varieties developed by the station from original head selections from these old varieties averaged 59.12 bushels, a gain of 6.11 bushels over the parent varieties.

Trumbull wheat, an improved variety developed from a single head of the old Fultz selected by Director Williams in 1906, grown as a check on twenty-four tenth-acre plots, produced 135.22 bushels, or 55.34 bushels per acre. This wheat which was introduced after being thoroughly tested on the experiment farms of the state, was grown on more than half of the wheat acreage in Ohio this year. Farmers have reported excellent yields from all parts of the state, many fields yielding more than fifty bushels per acre.

With four exceptions, entries in the various classes will correspond with last year. Canned goods, however will be exhibited as: best canned peaches, best canned corn et cetera, instead of groups of four cans as last year.

New classes have also been added to the list this year. Prizes will be given for the best packed lunch for school children. This lunch will be judged on the following basis: amount of food for the individual, selection of foods and attractiveness of the display.

Another new class expected to arouse interest in district schools has been added. This is open to each room of the grade schools of the township. Prizes will be awarded to individual pupils for entries and in addition a special prize will be given the room having the best display.

A third new class added this year provides for entries of flowers. Baskets containing single varieties or mixed varieties may be entered.

Providing no severe frosts occur before the exhibit date, it is hoped this new class will prove its worth by not only adding to the interest of the fair but lending itself to the attractiveness of the displays.

Catalogues containing information concerning the fair are being distributed and a large entry list is hoped for.

An entertaining program which will include stunts and plays will be given each night. Amusement features will be in charge of the classes of the high school and of various other organizations of the community.

Bill Stillman, in charge of the ushers, went out to the stadium last night and tested it for visibility—still another wrinkle that had been added to the prize fight game in this modern era. He said that the ring proved to be entirely visible.

Immediately thereafter he added 1,400 seats, placing stools in aisles and in vacant space—thereby increasing the probable income by $4,225.

Jack Kearns was reported to have bet $50,000 at 3 to 1 that Jack would win.

All night trains kept coming in to Philadelphia with more people aboard. Twenty-four specials had arrived early today.

W. H. Morgan, of Alliance, Ohio, came with a special car filled with guests. Charles M. Schwab was expected today in a private car from Pittsburgh.

John S. Fisher, Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania and Governor Pinchot were listed among early arrivals—Pinchot pulling for Tunney.

General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, announced his party would include fifteen guests.

Police announced their final plans for handling the crowds. No person without a ticket will be permitted within half a mile of the stadium after the gates are open at 3 p. m. today. Two main streets leading to the stadium will be reserved exclusively for taxicabs.

Approximately 128,000 tickets have been sold, according to the best information. That does not include 1,400 ushers, the several hundred newspaper men, telegraphers, photographers, radio men, electricians and others who are concerned in telling the world about the fight; nor Rickard's staff of general attendants, officials and the 1,000 police who will be in and around the stadium.

So the calculation that 140,000 people would see the fight didn't seem far from right.

Receipts were estimated at $1,800,000 of which Dempsey gets $400,000 and Tunney $200,000. It is generally understood Dempsey gets in addition half of the receipts over a million dollars which would make his profit for a few minutes work about $800,000 and leave Tex Rickard about $400,000. Out of that $400,000 Rickard will have to pay the expenses of promoting and staging the show and most people agreed this fight would make Rickard wealthy.

The state of Pennsylvania will get about $90,000 in state tax; the federal amusement tax about $175,000; the Sesqui-Centennial about $175,000. Those sums probably will be paid out of Rickard's share and out of whatever Dempsey gets as his share of the receipts over $1,000,000.

There was much speculation today as to the referee but no announcement will be made until just before the fight. He will be an important personage for should the fight go the full ten rounds and should the two judges fail to agree in their decision, his word will decide the winner. That is Pennsylvania law. Unless the judges give a unanimous verdict, their judgment is thrown out and the referee becomes the sole arbiter.

SNYDERS REPORTED SAFE FROM MIAMI

Anxiety that has been felt for days by relatives of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snyder at Miami, was relieved Thursday morning when a telegram was received by Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wilkins. The message said that they were safe and asked them to notify Dayton relatives to that effect, but gave no further particulars. The Snyders own an apartment building in Miami four blocks from the ocean front and relatives feared that they may have suffered serious property loss.

Mrs. John M. Davidson and family who have been located at Miami for some time, indicated that they were expecting to return to Xenia. The roof of their home was torn off by the storm.

WE WAG WORLD'S JAWS

A writer for an American newspaper published in Japan busied himself with assembling figures intended to expose to all men the insidious conquest of the world by American chewing gum. They have now reached this country and make fascinating reading.

The World war started it. The American soldier whiled away the tedium of enforced idleness or the monotony of long marches with chewing gum. Other nationalities tried it. It was passed along. As a result, in the year 1925, the investigator declared, the United States exported chewing gum to no less than 75 countries and colonies scattered the world over.

After setting forth figures which show that the Americans themselves spend more than $1,000,000 a week on chewing gum the analyst places the Japanese purchases for a single year at $75,000, which is twice what Australia takes and one-fourth of what goes to the Philippines. The writer believes the taste for it is mounting and that in a short time Japan will be as expert in gum chewing as the Filipinos.

Presumably the disaster may have set the nation back a little and perhaps even now Australia is within a few chews of equality with Japan. But, according to the survey, chewing gum is no longer a novelty anywhere but has become an international formula.

TREES AND HIGHWAYS

The roadside tree is at last coming into its own. Those that have survived the ravages of modern traffic are being protected and new trees are being planted along shadeless highways.

Ancient enemies of the roadside are the sign and bill poster, the road builder, the lineman and the landowner. For years they took an appalling toll in trees, but all are now on the defensive, if not giving voluntary co-operation in the preservation of trees along the highways.

There are times when the removal of a tree or a whole row of trees is necessary to eliminate a dangerous curve or to widen a highway. Under the old order of things such trees were removed and forgotten. Today in many states trees thus removed are either replanted or replaced by new trees.

No longer do the linemen of telephone, telegraph and electric power companies recklessly hack and saw at highway shade trees because their limbs interfere with the wires. Unscientific trimming by linemen killed countless valuable trees before the government began holding the owners of the wires accountable for the trees damaged by their employes.

The motor highway of the future will be a broad thoroughfare bordered on both sides by shade-giving trees and with all communication and power transmission lines running free of the trees and concealed from the roadway. To minimize danger to traffic from storm-broken trees, the trees on this highway of tomorrow will be placed at a safe distance from the roadway.

THWARTING LEPROSY

In the six-letter word "Culion", already well known to many in this country, lies the tale of one of the greatest achievements of American medical and chemical skill and unselfishness in foreign fields.

Culion is the island in the Philippines upon which Dr. Victor C. Heiser, then director of public health in the Philippines, twenty years ago established a leper colony for the treatment and isolation of the great numbers afflicted with this dread disease found in the Philippines when they came into the possession of the United States.

Those first to go went with dread. They feared it meant separation from their loved ones forever and having never seen Culion, they pictured it as a barren, sun-parched island prison. Better to be called "unclean" and to be socially ostracized at home than to go into lifelong exile, they thought.

To their gratifying surprise they found Culion an ideal place to live. They were provided comfortable homes, good food and every care and attention. Where before they had been cut off from most activities, they found occupations to keep them busy. All were social equals on the island and for the first time they could govern themselves. Soon the lepers who had gone into hiding to avoid deportation to Culion began to hear that it was a desirable place to live and one by one gave themselves up.

And at Culion the doctors, with the aid of scientists throughout the world, have been curing 20 percent of the leprosy cases and arresting the malady in 60 percent of them.

Just Folks

BY EDGAR A. GUEST

ONCE IN EVERY MOTORIST'S LIFE

I purchased a bottle of polish from a man that I met on the street.

As he smoked a cigar he was shining a car, which is not a remarkable feat.

But I stood there and mused on the stuff which he used, as often I'm tempted to do, and I'll swear every drop of that greasy old rag made his omnibus shine just like new.

So I paid him a dollar and took home a pint of the polish so simple and quick.

I declared: "I will shine this old wagon of mine, as the man said it's really no trick."

I started right in with the courage to win, and I shouted with utmost delight.

As I looked at my face in that first foot of space, so very remarkably bright.

I worked like a Trojan! But I'm sure never started to polish a car.

And they knew not, I fear, that from hood cap to rear, is a distance both spacious and far.

I shined up one side when my energy died and my crazy for a lustre was shot.

So I quit then and there. I have polish to spare. Shall I finish the job? I shall not!

New York

By Jack O'Donnell

I'm told on Grade A authority that Mr. Zeigfeld, Connoisseur of Couture has a new device for making pulchritude more precarious. He has not sprung it yet on the breathless public, but is holding it in reserve.

It consists of an unusual type of cloth which become perfectly transparent under the action of a certain light ray—the general idea being that he will adorn a number of his dearest girls in gowns made from this cloth, group them at a table playing bridge or some equally innocuous and simple scene, and then introduce a funny man with a machine to throw the special light ray.

Predictions are that this number will prove a greater attraction than the Tomato Surprise course which Gotham's restaurants are featuring.

One way to make money in New York is to go plumb crazy. An acquaintance of mine got stung by a tsetse fly in Africa two years ago and contracted sleeping sickness, which has since affected his mind. In some ways he is normal out he has queer habits of staring hard at persons, forgetting names and faces and dates, and doing silly things at unexpected moments.

Before the fly stung him he was getting $35 a week in an insurance office. Now he's getting $10,000 a year as advertising manager for an aluminum company. The crazier he gets the more he enjoys the high pressure of big business.

Success is an over-night affair in this brightly lighted little island, anyway. Either a tsetse fly or a misunderstanding over the telephone can bring it down around your head if you don't watch out. Only last week, lunching at the Advertising Club, I heard how a big executive of one of New York's large silk houses landed his present high-salaried position. A member of the firm called up the company where this man was working at practically an office-boy wage, and requested an interview with Mr. So-and-so. The name was transmitted wrong, the wrong man applied for the vacancy (more as a joke than anything else)—and got the job. He still has it and is making good, although his salary was multiplied tenfold overnight.

A store that sells nothing but clothes to make stout women look thin is one of the big commercial successes in New York. Its shoe department alone does a colossal business—built-in arches, and diths to EEE.

It is a fact well known to artists

FANCYWORK PROBLEMS

Extending a Bridge Table Cover: Reader Friend writes that she has bought one of the new bridge tables, thirty inches square, with a wadded silk top. Her old bridge table cover, black satin, measures but twenty-nine inches at the cut-in corners, thereby leaving the corners of the new table uncovered. "How can I extend it?" she inquires.

If it were mine, I should buy one-half yard of green (or black) satin, (costing around twenty-five cents) and shoot out this into four strips of four and one-half inches each. I would double each strip, and use it as a border on one edge of the old table cover, taking care to mitre corners. Then I'd fasten tapes at the corners and work my initials in the center of the cover in green silk, to match the two-inch-wide border.

Edging a Luncheon Set: "I can't embroider at all," writes another Reader Friend. "How can

ASSUMES CHARGE

The Rev. S. M. Igmire D. D. will succeed the Rev. Joseph Bennett as pastor of the Cedarville M. E. Church through appointment made by the conference at Toledo last week. The Rev. Mr. Igmire came to the West Ohio Conference from Illinois. He will take charge of the Cedarville church and preach his first sermon September 26. The Rev. Mr. Bennett becomes pastor of Wesley Church, Lima.

The Theatre

By the end of the season New York City will have ninety legitimate theatres, according to a compilation by Variety.

The Forrest, Mansfield, Biltmore and Mayfair have opened within the past year. New ones are the Edythe Totten, the Irving, the Waldorf, the Golden, and three Chanin theaters to be incorporated in the hotel building on Eighth Ave., between Forty-fourth and Forty-fifth Sts. Then there is to be another opposite the Guild on Fifty-second, and Eva LeGallienne with her repertoire company restores the old Fourteenth St. to the list.

Genial Oscar Shaw (no advertising) contrives to get himself talked about, which is the essence of successful advertising. Recently, according to a rumor, he was at work on a play about Mohomet. Interviewed on the subject, the dramatist replied: "Yes, I agree that Mahomet, like Joan, needs to be rescued from Voltaire. But think of the salaries of his multitude of wives. No theatre could stand it."

Anne Nichols occasionally gets desperate at the way the money rolls in from the numerous Irish roses of Able's and puts on a play. Her newest venture is "Howdy, King," a farce by Mark Swan.

Among the names likely to be seen on vaudeville bills this season are Theda Bara, Nance O'Neill, Looks like a busy season for Willard Mack. He has fixed up, with the assistance of David Belasco, a play for Fannie Brice, entitled, strangely enough, "Fanny" and scheduled for a New York showing this month. From the road come encouraging reports about his melodrama of the West called now "All the Way From Texas," which is to invade the big city in November, probably with Mr. Mack playing the role he played out of town. Then too, he is at work on a stage version of Don Byrne's "Hangman's House," to be produced before Christmas.

Concerning theatres on the "other side," Samuel Pepys, the world's most famous diarist, is too little known in this country, believe the wise ones, to make expedient the importation of the play about him, "And So to Bed," now being done in London.

Paris has a play about the Mormons, a dramatization of the Scize of the Pierre Benoit novel, "Salt Lake." With the Mormon theme it is not difficult to imagine that the Parisian farce experts have had some fun.

ADDITIONAL COUNTY OFFICE BUILDING

It seems queer that within five years from the time the first Court House was completed it was deemed necessary to build additional quarters for county officials.

Such, however, was the case, whatever the cause may have been.

Records of the county commissioners disclose that June 4, 1814, the board passed a resolution ordering the erection on the public square of a building for the use of the clerk of the court of common pleas and the county commissioners.

Contract for the building was let July 4, 1814 to David Douglass for $749.50.

This structure was a small, one-story, brick building, and stood about fifty feet north of Main St. and between the Court House and Green St.

It was ready to be turned over to the county September 4, 1815 and was accepted by commissioners at this time.

A small porch, known in those days by the high-sounding name of "plazza," was built along the front of this little building 1820 by John Harrison. This building was razed shortly after the office building of 1832 was erected.

THE HELPLESS GOOD

There are thousands of very good people in jail. And there are thousands of very bad people out of jail. Jails make people neither good nor bad. If there is any doubt, I rather think that jails make more people bad than good. But this is only the opinion of a very humble observer.

The fact is that many of us do not deserve the title of good. When Jesus was addressed as "Good Master," he rebuked the addresser and told him not to call him good—that there was no one good but God.

We are either strong or weak—and it is time and circumstance that make us either.

There are those who are good because they can't help but be good. There are as many other good people called bad because of the terrible temptations and environments that have made them that way.

But goodness in its last analysis is of the heart.

I read a poem the other day which told of a little girl who on her way to school had to go through a very bad route where it was muddy. On her way she slipped and fell and got her new white dress all spattered with mud. She presented herself in tears to her teacher. Another girl came up to boast of her whiteness of dress, and asked what reward she would merit. But the teacher only replied:

"You merit no reward today: Your clothes and hands are clean because You had a smooth path all the way."

And so I think when children grow up Are white in grace or black with sin

ROBERT REISINGER KILLED IN CRASH

Robert Reisinger, 33, well known Dayton undertaker, died at the Miami Valley Hospital at 8 o'clock, Wednesday night of injuries suffered two hours earlier when the automobile in which he was riding skidded and turned over twice on the Brandt Pike.

C. E. McCann, Columbus, highway contractor, who was driving the car, escaped with slight injuries. Mr. Reisinger and Mr. McCann were returning from Columbus where they had transacted business in connection with the death of Mrs. McCann, whose funeral Mr. Reisinger had conducted a week ago. McCann said that his sedan skidded on wet paving when he attempted to make a turn in the road. Mr. Reisinger was thrown clear of the machine and his head struck an iron fence causing a fracture of the skull. He received numerous other lesser injuries. He is survived by his father, Frank Reisinger, also a Dayton undertaker and his widow, Bertha. He was well known in Dayton because of his philanthropies and his annual Christmas party for poor children.

DAD FALLS FOR THE OLD BLUFF

Jay V. Jay

"Mitzi, aren't you going to be with us today?" asks Dad. "I can't," replies Mitzi, "I haven't a rag to wear. Everything I own is at the cleaners."

Dad wonders what all those suitcases contained that he has been checking across the country. The circumstantial evidence of the negligee emphasizes the fact that Mitzi is destitute of clothes.

This is a deplorable state. Dad's own daughter with nothing to wear but a stunning negligee. Well, of course, Dad urges her to go right out and buy a frock so that she can go out and see the sights of Milwaukee for they will be leaving the city shortly. Notice the jig-jag fastening of the neck of this cloth coat dress. It's just what Mitzi wants for the rest of the trip.

Since Dad really told her to go ahead and get something to wear she added the cloth coat dress, very tailored, very simple, and exceedingly smart. The cuff has tiers which are repeated on the skirt. Of course, when Mitzi gets to the hotel the cleaner will have all her clothes, cleaned and pressed ready to wear. She'll have acquired three new dresses, though.

Tomorrow—Little Things of Great Importance On Evening Clothes

Dempsey Will Not Alibi If Defeated

By HENRY L. FARRELL
NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Jim Jeffries said after he had lost the world's heavyweight championship to Jack Johnson that he had been "drugged by a double-crossing friend in his camp."

Johnson said he lost his title to Jess Willard because he knew "there wasn't no use in getting up." He only smiled when asked why he had put his hands over his eyes to keep the sun out when he was on the floor.

Willard, when he was knocked out by Jack Dempsey, in Toledo, said that Dempsey had his hands packed and that he hadn't trained enough.

The records are not clear that, with the exception of John L. Sullivan's, "I'm glad the championship remains in America" any defeated heavyweight champion admitted that he was beaten by a better man.

The thought follows—what excuse will Jack Dempsey have if he loses his title to Gene Tunney?

Perhaps he may say that he was out of the ring too long but he doesn't look it and he has taken better care of himself and lived longer during the period of his temporary retirement than any other fighter ever did. He can't say that he was drugged for he is surrounded by a shock proof entourage of friends and employees.

He won't say that he was beaten by loaded hands because he isn't that type. He won't say "it was no use to get up" because he will get up by instinct if his legs will hold him.

It is very likely that he will say that he was beaten by a better man.

Dempsey never has been a braggart. He admits that he is good but he has the record to show for it and does not have to quote his personal opinions.

"Heavyweight champion always is surrounded by 'yes men' but Dempsey never has been influenced by 'yessing'."

They told him that Carpenter was a set-up, that Firpo was a palooka and they are telling him now that Tunney can't break a window glass.

"No man can stand up under a punch or enough punching in the right place," is Dempsey's answer to all. "I know that some day I'm going to be hit hard enough and then I'll be through."

There are the usual silly stories going around that the "fight" is in the bag and that Tunney will win. The story has been passed around New York and has bounced back from nearly every section of the country. It is said that Dempsey hasn't been training, that he is not in condition to fight and that he will be satisfied with his big end of the purse and a "piece of Tunney" that had to be signed over to him before he accepted the fight.

Reds Have Mathematical Chance, That Is All

The league-leading St. Louis Cardinals benefited hugely by the idleness of the Cincinnati Reds and revelling in the sunlight of a near National League pennant for the first time in thirty-seven years, walloped the Brooklyn Robins 15 to 7, Wednesday.

Thus the Cards increased their lead over the Reds to two and one-half games and practically clinched the league championship. Cincinnati's pennant horizon is now farther away than ever. The Reds still have a mathematical chance to win the flag but that is all.

St. Louis has three more games, two with New York and one with Cincinnati. The Reds have four more to play three with Philadelphia and the Cardinal contest. By winning both contests with the Giants St. Louis can clinch the flag even if the Reds should show such a reversal of form that the team wins all of its remaining games.

Cincinnati is banking on one forlorn hope—that New York will defeat the Cards in at least one of the two games. In such an event the Reds have a slim opportunity to create a tie in the league by making a clean sweep of the series with the Phillies and defeating the Cards in the single contest, September 26.

It is not much to hope for unless Cincinnati plays in improved style from now on but there still remains the old mathematical possibility, if that is any satisfaction.

Meanwhile Cleveland, the Ohio pennant contender in the American League, is not letting any opportunities to gain on the New York Yankees slip away. Cleveland cut New York's lead to two games by shipping a 5 to 1 defeat over Boston while the Chicago White Sox were rallying in the ninth inning to set back the Yankees 2 to 1.

Cleveland is not giving up hope but continues to fight gamely in a desperate effort to overtake the former world champions who have not been enjoying much success on the diamond lately.

The only contest of vital importance scheduled in either of the circuits for Thursday is the Cincinnati-Philadelphia tilt. The other major league contenders are idle.

The Reds must defeat the Phillies Thursday to even keep abreast of their slim mathematical chance to win the pennant.

BATTLE WILL DRAW BIGGEST PAID CROWD IN SPORT HISTORY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—From those relatively ancient days when John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey (the original) and Jack McAuliffe were traveling around taking all comers as "The Three American Jacks," Philadelphia has ranked as one of the most enthusiastic sports towns in the world.

There is no other city in the United States where the taxi drivers, the bellhops and the telephone girls can talk as intelligently about any kind of a game as they do in Philadelphia. There is no other city in the country where the public supports tennis, golf, track and field sports, boxing and baseball as they are supported in Philadelphia.

"But," it was pointed out to Tex Rickard, when he was looking for a spot for his Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship fight, "Philadelphia is a cheap town. They will kick like steers if they have to pay ten dollars for a ticket and there are not six champions on the card."

"That's the bunk," Phil Glassman, prominent Philadelphia boxing man, told Rickard when he was being urged to give the New York Boxing Commission the air and take the fight to the Pennsylvania metropolises.

"Most of the tops," he said, "have been ten dollars but for the good shows speculators have been getting as high as thirty dollars for ringside seats. They'll pay in Philadelphia if they get what they want."

Apparently the Dempsey-Tunney fight was something that Philadelphia wanted. As the city, picked out by the vaudeville wise-crackers as "Sleep Town" awoke this morning, it was a safe bet that there wouldn't be a vacant foot in the big stadium in the exposition grounds tonight when the two fighters enter the ring.

Rickard and the ticket experts on his staff who are as familiar with crowds as Ringling's circus staff could not estimate how many spectators would be crowded into the huge concrete stadium, but Rickard shifted his cigar and said—

"Mebbe about 130,000. There'll be a lot in there that ain't sittin' down."

It is safe to estimate that it will be the largest crowd that ever saw a boxing match any place in the world. With the possible exception of the Indianapolis automobile races and some of the football games that have been played in the University of California stadium, it will be the biggest attended sporting event ever held in the United States.

Overly enthusiastic announcements that it will draw the biggest crowd in the history of sport are incorrect as the English Derby at Epsom Downs draws millions. No one can compute the number of persons who see the annual Derby because there are only a few stands in which admission is charged.

WILBERFORCE GRID SEASON TO OPEN WITH ST. LOUIS, LINCOLN

Wilberforce University has arranged a difficult football schedule of eight games for the fall season of which four will be played at home, three away and one on neutral territory at Columbus.

A promising squad of forty candidates is being put through arduous practice sessions twice daily in preparation for the opening of the season's campaign October 2 with Lincoln University, of St. Louis, Mo., at St. Louis.

Outstanding games were those with Lincoln, Howard, West Virginia Collegiate Institute and Langston. Howard and Collegiate games were lost in the last few minutes of play. Langston was scored upon for the first touchdown made against the Oklahoma team in three seasons. The local team won seven and lost two games.

Wilberforce this season will have an opportunity to avenge the Howard and Institute defeats as return games are scheduled with both teams.

Leading contest on the fall schedule is with Howard University of Washington D. C. at Wilberforce November 6. This will be celebrated as the home coming game.

Complete schedule follows:

Oct. 2—Lincoln University, St. Louis, Mo., at St. Louis.

Too Much "Acid?"

Excess Uric Acid Gives Rise to Many Unpleasant Troubles.

AUTHORITIES agree that an excess of uric acid is primarily due to faulty kidney action. Retention of this toxic material often makes its presence felt by sore, painful joints, a tired, languid feeling and, sometimes, toxic backache and headache. That the kidneys are not functioning right is often shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Thousands assist their kidneys at such times by the use of Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic. COUNTY RESPONDS SLOWLY TO APPEAL FOR FLORIDA RELIEF

The Florida disaster relief fund being raised by the Greene County Chapter of the American Red Cross under a proclamation of Mayor John W. Prugh with authorization of national headquarters, is slowly being swelled by a number of voluntary contributions.

The Greene County Chapter of the Red Cross has been designated as the official relief organization of the city to handle all funds with which rehabilitation measures in Florida will be directed.

Greene County is responding slowly to the appeal for contributions for relief work. Voluntary contributions will be sent to national headquarters from where the national campaign to raise a vast sum for relieving the suffering and for rehabilitation work in the storm-torn area is being directed.

No campaign for funds will be made locally and no quota has been allotted the county but voluntary contributions should be sent to the national headquarters at the Court House.

NO SCARLET FEVER REPORTED IN XENIA

So far as is known there is only one case of the disease in Greene County, Mrs. Wayne Faulkner of the Hussey Pike being a sufferer from the malady. Her condition is improving. Willard Inwood, 14, a pupil at the Kingman High School, in Clinton County, is also suffering from the malady in a virulent form.

Judge Wright, however, declared the workhouse sentence would not be enforced should Huffman meet certain requirements, arrange for $500 bond to insure payment of $5 per week to the court for support of his child.

Huffman was arrested Wednesday by Probation Officer J. E. Watts on an affidavit filed several days ago by his former wife, now Mrs. Roy Webb. There is one child a fourteen-year-old girl.

Easy to check Catarrh NOW!

Few people put up with catarrh willingly. Yet many endure its discomforts because they do not know how easy it is to end it. Salves and ointments give temporary relief. But catarrh is too deep-seated for them to reach effectively. To end catarrh you must treat the inflamed mucous membranes—the delicate linings of nose, throat and head. When these are again in a healthy condition catarrh disappears. Bad breath, catarrhal deafness and other symptoms vanish. For over 40 years Hall's Catarrh Medicine has been the outstanding successful method of combating catarrh. Its effectiveness has been proved by thousands. Get it at any drug store. Or send $1.00 to F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

A Man Who Was Unfortunate

A story is told of a Spanish peasant who worked hard for seventeen years to carve a home for himself out of a solid rock. It is easy to imagine that he was compelled to practice great thrift and economy during those long years.

What a pity that there were no J. C. Penney Company Stores in Spain so that this Spaniard might have enjoyed the important savings which our patrons in this country enjoy.

Low prices coupled with high quality is the combination which the tremendous buying power of this Nation-wide institution makes effective for all our Stores.

BRITISH JURISTS RECEIVE TWICE AS MUCH PAY AS IN U. S.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—British judges from the top down to the lowest police magistrate, are the highest paid in the world.

The six "Lords of Appeal in Ordinary"—known as the Law Lords—who hear appeal cases in the House of Lords, get $30,000 a year. Another appeal court known as the "Supreme Court of Judicature," has five judges, each of whom gets $25,000. The Rt. Hon. Lord Hewart, who presides over the "King's Bench Division"—a sort of appellate court—receives $40,000 a year and each of his associates receives $25,000.

Even the metropolitan police magistrates get salaries that are not to be despised—namely $7,500 a year.

And all judges get handsome pensions when they retire. Altogether the courts of justice in Great Britain draw from the treasury for salaries more than $2,000,000 a year.

WHEAT SUFFERED IN 1926 FROM HESSIAN FLY SURVEY SHOWS

The 1926 wheat crop suffered comparatively little injury from Hessian fly except for some fields in about a dozen counties in the west-central part of the state. The wheat field survey made by entomologists of the State University, Experiment Station, and Department of Agriculture revealed, however, that the amount of fly in practically all sections was slightly greater than it was in 1925.

This condition is interpreted as indicating that at this time the insect is gradually forging ahead of its natural enemies which have rather effectively held it in check during the last few years. Past experience with the fly leads entomologists to believe that under this condition it would be unwise to disperse very far from the fly-free seedling areas.

In west-central Ohio, a dozen or more counties, including Darke, Preble, Miami, Montgomery Champaign Clark, etc., the suggested dates should be adhered to without fail.

The fly-free date for any section of the state will be furnished by the county agricultural agent or by the Experiment Station Wooster, Ohio.

MAGAZINE DEVOTED TO PARENTHOOD IS BEING PUBLISHED

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Under the sponsorship of sixty eminent specialists in children's health, education, and welfare, a new national periodical called "Children. The Magazine for Parents," made its initial appearance today.

"This magazine," it was announced by George J. Hecht, president of The Parents' Publishing Association, under whose auspices it is issued, "will have no propaganda purpose, being dedicated solely to fathers and mothers, for the sake of a new generation of normal, intelligent and healthy children. In this it will have the active co-operation of the leading educational and child welfare agencies, private, public and governmental."

Among the editors of the new magazine are: Miss Julia C. Lathrop, former chief of the U. S. Children's Bureau, Angelo Patri, educator and author of books on child training, Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of the Juvenile Court of Denver, Colo., Livingston Farrand, president of Cornell University, Dr. Lee K. Frankel, chairman of the National Health Council, Dr. Helen T. Woolley, director, Institute of Child Welfare Research, Teachers College, Columbia University, James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, Mrs. Sidonie M. Gruenberg, director of the Child Study Association of America, Mrs. Jane Dexter Rippin, national director, The Girl Scouts and Dr. Bela Schick, discoverer of the Schick test for diphtheria.

"There are magazines on the breeding of hogs and dogs, the growing of flowers, the refining of metals," explained Hecht, "There are magazines for laboring men, radio fans, barbers, beekeepers—for every trade and profession, except the greatest of all—parenthood."

"Billions of dollars are spent on schools; but practically nothing is spent to teach parents how to rear their children. Of 96,000 hours of a child's life between the ages of five and sixteen, only 7,000 hours are spent in school; the other ninety per cent of the time is the parents' responsibility. The new magazine will have nothing for children to read; it will consider with parents all the vital problems of bringing up children from crib to college."

First Pictures Show Devastation Wrought By Storm

Pictures reproduced below tell a graphic story of the damage wrought by the hurricane which struck Florida east coast cities early last Saturday, leaving a mounting toll of dead and injured, and property destruction estimated at $100,000,000. These pictures show trees and buildings broken and overturned by the storm, crowds searching the debris for victims, houses standing on their roofs, autos overturned and a four-column picture of Hardy's Casino at Miami Beach, standing in ruins. The pictures were taken at Miami or Miami Beach, worst hit of the several cities that were in the path of the tropical hurricane. All pictures are copyrighted by International Newsreel.

Where Storm Took Millions Toll—Central Business Portion of Miami

This panorama photograph, one of the best ever taken of the central business portion of Miami, was secured from the top of the Miami Daily News tower, on North Bayshore Drive. Here the tropical hurricane that recently visited Florida took a toll of millions of dollars.

The Girl Who Dared

By May Christie

Chapter VIII. NEW YORK

New York at last! Mary Forrest, a little dazed and very much intrigued, leant over the side of the steamer and gazed at the towering cliffs of buildings that jutted against the New York skyline in a weird and wonderful effect.

"How on earth did the builders ever do it?" she murmured to John Rogers who, assiduously attentive in the last few days, was by her side.

"Almost reach to high heaven, don't they?" he laughed in answer. Then he added: "When it comes to building sixty stories, you'll admit it's 'going some' in a high wind they say the steel frame of the upper part can swing six feet or so. Sort of yielding motion, like cradle-rocking."

"I'd prefer terra firma," said Mary with a shiver.

Came the voice of Luella, rather peevish, from behind.

"You all make me tired with your skyscraper gazing! If we only had more space for decent houses in New York, who'd be a 'cliff-dweller' anyway? I was in a fine once, and the elevator was cut off, and believe me there wasn't much fun in crawling down fourteen floors on the iron fire escape outside! Not that a fire-escape would be any help in the latest New York stunt of earthquakes! Oh, yes, we have earthquakes! Just you wait!"

As Luella moved away, John Rogers said:

"Miss Loder's been a prize pessimist of late. And she seems to have quarreled with her handsome sweetheart."

"You mean—Mr. Andover?" Mary's tones were strained.

"The very same. Nice chap. A little upstage, maybe. I hear he was quite poor and then inherited a fine property in Cuba. Lucky chap! I had to slave and work my fingers to the bone to get my pile together."

Now Mary had heard, in a long melancholy recital from the furiously disappointed Miss Luella Loder, the tale of Philip's lost inheritance.

"And the ghastly bit is that the news arrived just at the wrong moment, when Philip had proposed to me and I'd practically accepted him," had Luella, in the cabin to her confidante. "If it only had come five minutes sooner—(really they're awfully careless about delivering radios quickly on these boats)—then I'd have been saved this awful contretemps."

"You mean—the bad news—would have made a difference to your answer?" Mary had stammered, shocked, amazed, and at the same time with a pained envy over the other girl's breath-taking fortune in having won the love of such a man as Mr. Andover. "But he'd need you all the more now that—"

"Nonsense!" Luella had interrupted tersely. "I don't want to marry a failure. You couldn't imagine me as being poor?"

After landing at Desbrosses St. the Wade party, which included Mary and Luella, were rattling at a furious speed over the cobbled streets.

"Don't be nervous," Mrs. Wade reassured her. "The only real risk to pedestrians. The autos kill on an average, in New York alone, about three hundred people a month!"

"Hustle," certainly appeared to be the motto here. Mary was intrigued particularly by the smart appearance of the women. The streets were full of them, for the offices were disgorging clerks and typists by the thousand in the lunch hour.

"Our stenographers dress very well—much better than in most cities," explained Luella. "They don't spoil things by a flower here and a ribbon there, and the wrong shade of shoes and gloves, and a shirt-waist that isn't properly pressed."

"But girls in some places don't put even a penny on their backs, like the spendthrift creatures here," commented Mrs. Wade. "And from what I've seen of the Southern working girls"—she nodded approvingly towards Mary Forrest—"they have pleasant manners, and a proper respect for their elders, which our terrible young women don't. I really pity the mothers of the present-day. They've no control whatever over their daughters. The girls only use their homes as places to sleep in, and come home at all hours of the morning, and they laugh at criticism, and at their parents."

Mary looked about the busy streets.

"These girls must get big salaries to dress so well and be able to afford so many enjoyments."

Luella gave a careless shrug.

"Catch our girls paying a penny for enjoyments, as you call them, when so many young men are about. As for clothes, we have a different system. An expensive model right from Paris appears in a Fifth Avenue store, and is exclusive only for a month or two. Then you see it copied everywhere on Broadway, in the cheap little shops, in cheap materials, but cut, oh! so cleverly and smartly! That applies to coats and cloaks and everything, as well as dresses."

"So our poor young misses ape their betters," commented Mrs. Wade with some acidity.

"And certainly get away with it," Luella supplemented.

The taxi rattled and bumped into Fifth Avenue, and Mary Forrest gazed with fascinated eyes at the beautifully-arranged shop-windows and the hurrying throngs.

Brilliant sunshine lay on everything. The air was keen, yet not too cold. It braced her.

"Nice weather for December," said Cyrus Wade. "Our Indian summer lingers."

The taxi swung to the left and Mary had her first glimpse of New York's "elevated railway." On a skeleton framework supported by iron pillars that were set in the center of a street rattled an overhead railway, crammed with passengers.

Mary craned her neck to look up at the contraption.

"They do have accidents sometimes," said Mrs. Wade. "Several coaches full of passengers fell off into the street, down Brooklyn way. Very alarming and I don't much care for traveling by the 'L.' But the subways are insufferable, so what is one to do?"

Mary felt a little stunned. The elevated roared, the street cars clashed with an intolerable noise. Over the streets at an incredible speed went motor-trucks, sounding sirens and hooters as they dashed along. And cars, some with open exhaust, and shrieking devilishly.

Their taxi came to a violent stop outside a skyscraper, and soon Mary found herself in a hotel lobby like a street, so big it was, so crammed with people.

"This is where we stay for a few days," said Mrs. Wade. They crossed the tessellated floor to a long marble counter, dividing into sections bearing electrically lit signs: "Mail"—"Information"—"Reception"—"Telegrams"—"Travel" etc.

A clerk consulted an open ledger. The Wade couple and Luella were to be located on the twentieth floor, it seemed, and a bedroom had been reserved for Mary Forrest on the sixth, the ladies' floor, from which the foot of man was utterly prohibited.

"The young lady will be quite comfortable there," said the reception clerk. "I have nothing vacant for her on the twentieth, at the price you name."

He signalled a bell-boy, who accompanied Mary into one of the two elevators marked "Local" the other members of the party disappearing into an "Express." On the sixth floor the bell-hop introduced her to a lady clerk who took her through a labyrinth of corridors to a bedroom that was brilliantly lit with many lamps and bulbs, and had a white-tiled private bathroom opening off it.

"Yours, madam. If you require anything, just telephone for it." And she withdrew.

Mary went over to the window and pulled up the blind. Although she had just come in from the sunniest noon-time streets, a deep twilight lay outside her room. As she stood there, puzzled, straining her eyes in the semidarkness, there was a sudden flash and a roaring noise, and the floor under her feet vibrated, and the four walls shook!

"Good, gracious! What on earth? Is it an earthquake?"

Below her window writhed and roared and screamed a long trailing monster!

Mary fell back in terror. Oh! what could it be? The awful sound died off... and then it came again... and yet again.

She grabbed the telephone, and stuttered out an inquiry to an astonished operator.

"Say, miss, it's just the elevated railway!" came the giggling answer. "Yep! Right below your window! A train a minute, night and day!"
